JODRELL BANK, England (CP)—More unidentified signals "of a suspicious character" were picked up by the giant Jodrell Bank radio telescope today.

Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the observatory, said it was possible the signals had an earthly origin but he could think of no source on earth to fit the evidence.

Lovell is working with two Russian space tracking experts in a final search for Russia's "lost" rocket to Venus, which now is about 62,000,000 miles away.

East, West Both Urge Halt in Laos Fighting

'COPTER LOST WITH 3 MEN

VANCOUVER (CP)—A helicopter and three men are missing in interior British Columbia, the RCAF air-sea rescue centre here reported today.

The air force said an Okanagan Helicopters Limited craft, piloted by Jim Murphy of nearby North Surrey, left Lillooet last Friday to pick up two prospectors 45 miles north-west of the Cariboo community.

No word has been received from either the prospectors or the pilot since the craft left Lillooet.

Woman Burned, In Fair Condition

A 63-year-old Victoria woman is in "fair" condition at Royal Jubilee Hospital today after suffering "severe" burns.

Police said Mrs. Ella Pearce, apparently, was smoking in bed in her Surrey block room at 639 Yates when the linen caught fire at about 3.30 a.m. today.

Green Back to Geneva

OTTAWA (UPI)—External Affairs Minister Howard Green said today he will fly to Geneva Tuesday to resume leadership of the Canadian delegation to the 14-nation conference on Laos.

GENEVA (UPI)—The West and the Communist delegates compromised today and agreed to send an appeal to both sides in Laos to co-operate with the International Control Commission on a truce.

But new trouble developed shortly after the delegates to the 14-nation conference on Laos returned to the conference table for the first time since last Wednesday when the sessions were interrupted by a Western boycott over Communist cease-fire violations. Thailand walked out in a huff over a question of procedure.

Chief U.S. delegate W. Averell Harriman injected the only note of urgency into the two-hour, 22-minute meeting by demanding "expedient arrangements" for sending the ICC "necessary equipment and facilities" so it could properly do its policing job.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home presided at today's session and announced that the three rival princes of Laos would meet in Zurich in a companion attempt with the conference to reach a solution for the Southeast Asian kingdom's troubles.

HE SLEPT IN PEACE

Trains Stop for Philip

LONDON (AP)—A row of Parliament called for an investigation into the cancellation of a number of trains early last Wednesday so their rumblings wouldn't disturb the prince while he slept in a royal train parked outside a Devon station.

Philip was on a tour of youth clubs. His special train had stopped for the night at the little town of Thorverton.

So Philip could sleep late, railway authorities cancelled five early trains and laid on a fleet of taxis and buses to take passengers on a 30-minute detour to connect with other trains.

"It is disgraceful that passengers should have been inconvenienced in this way," said Labor member George Strauss. "We're going to look into it."

Marcus Lipton agreed: "It is quite unreasonable to upset railway timetables for the sake of one person."

"None of the passengers complained," said a spokesman for Britain's state-owned railroad.

Airliner Crashes Killing 19

CAIRO (Reuters)—Nineteen persons were killed when a Dutch airliner hit a sand dune and broke in two when attempting to land here today.

Everything appeared normal as the four-engine plane made its approach. The tower at Cairo airport cleared the plane for the approach and wished the pilot a "happy landing."

The plane broke in two after the impact.

KLM, the Royal Dutch Airline, announced that the plane carried 29 passengers and a crew of seven. There were 17 survivors, four of them crew members.

Among the freight carried by the airliner was more than $2.5 million in gold bars.

NO CANADIANS ABOARD

Some of the survivors were in critical condition, the announcement said. It was believed there were no Canadians aboard.

The plane was a four-engine turbo-prop Lockheed Electra flying from Amsterdam via Rome to Cairo, Karachi, Rangoon and Bangkok.

The plane plowed into the top of a sand dune about three miles from the airport during its landing approach.

The crash area was strewn with clothing, shoes, luggage and children's toys. Some bodies were burned beyond recognition.

FOUND ALIVE

One man was found alive 200 yards from the wreckage. A dead child lay next to him.

The survivors included Australian pilot Kenneth Reynolds, 37, who broke both legs.

Of the rest of the crew, the Dutch co-pilot was killed, and the flight engineer, purser and a stewardess were injured. The bodies of two stewards were missing.

Worst Stage In Conqo Over-Dag

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld said today the "grievous stage" has passed in the Congo, barring the unexpected.

Hammarskjöld made the statement shortly after announcing an agreement with President Joseph Kasavubu giving the United Nations a strong voice in Congolese finances and making $10 million available to bolster bogged-down economy of the Congo.

Hammarskjöld told a news conference "the main trend seems to be a constructive trend" in the Congo. He said he based his encouraged outlook on UN contract with native leaders and "their willingness to co-operate and to go ahead."

"The grievous stage has passed," he said, "with the reservation that the unexpected is always possible."

The secretary-general said that the prospect was "encouraging" that the Congolese parliament would meet soon.

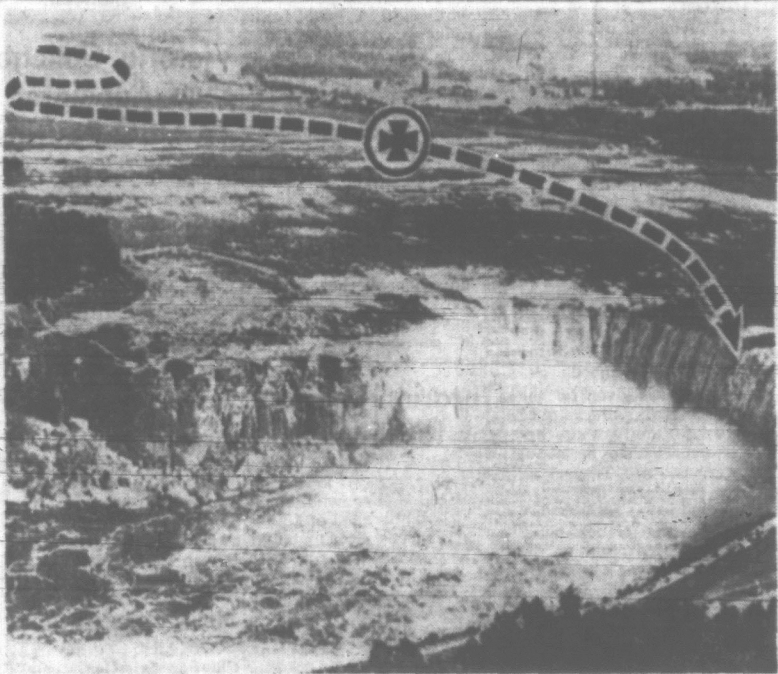

SHOT IN HEAD, B.C. BURGLAR SUSPECT DIES

He was John Carter Cockell, 40, of Williams Lake.

Police in Prince George said the shooting took place shortly after midnight Saturday while Constable Morley Kitchen was investigating a break-in at a hardware store in Chetwynd, about 60 miles west of Dawson Creek in the Peace River area.

The bullet pierced Cockell's head just over the left eye and came to rest at the base of his skull.

ROUTE TO DEATH

Dotted line indicates route to death taken by four persons in small motorboat in Niagara River above Horseshoe Falls on Canadian side. Apparently stalled by engine trouble, the boat swung out and drifted through gate of hydro control dam that stretches halfway across river. Spot marked X is where boat capsized. Three persons went over the falls and the fourth was sucked down a power plant intake.

Police Foil Kidnap Plot In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Police said today they are investigating a plot to kidnap an Ottawa businessman's child.

The city police department said in a statement "Confidential information has been received by the Ottawa police department to the effect that an attempt would be made to abduct the child of a prominent Ottawa businessman."

The police feel that this attempt will be foiled, the statement added.

Officials declined to name the family involved or to provide additional detail.

The Ottawa Journal reports that the case involves a $250,000 extortion plot and that the child is a boy in his teens. It adds that the boy has been under close guard since police first got word of the plot.

Three plunged over the brink to the rock-strewn cataract below. The fourth was sucked through the intake of a power plant.

The victims: George Stewart, 49-year-old druggist from Ridgeway, Ont., and his wife Jean, 44, owners of the boat.

Stanley Tessman, 60, and his wife Gladys, 51, of Buffalo, N.Y., friends of the Stewarts who owned a cottage in the Ridgeway area.

One battered body was recovered from a tank in the depths of the Canadian Niagara Power Company plant, 145 feet below the intake. It was believed that one of the men who lost his grip on a rescue rope after holding on for almost a minute.

Dozens of tourists and sightseers, unable to help because of the churning water, watched the tragedy which began to unfold two miles upstream from the falls.

The boat's doom was sealed when, apparently having engine trouble, it drifted through a gate of the Ontario hydro control dam which stretches more than half way across the river from the Canadian side.

"We thought they were just fooling around," said Pat Christian, who was fishing from the bank.

Shortly afterwards, the boat drifted into white water and capsized. Thomas Huchman, 16, of Stamford Township said he saw two men struggling in the water. Neither wore a life jacket although two jackets were floating nearby.

It went over one drop and another. Then it disappeared under the water.

"One of the women in the crowd knelt down to pray. Everyone was stunned. There was nothing anyone could do."

Mrs. Harry Wilson, a sister of Mr. Stewart, said her brother was a good boatman and spent much of his spare time on the river.

"We threw him a rope," said Chewerda. "He held on for a minute or less. Then he slipped away and was swept into the intake."

At the same time the second man, apparently unconscious, floated by in midstream headed for the brink of the falls.

Sgt. James Molloy of the Niagara Falls, Ont., city police, saw part of the tragedy. He was about a half mile from the brink of the falls when he saw the boat.

"I could hear a woman in the back of the boat screaming," he said. "A man was moving around in the boat as if he were trying to do something to turn it around."

"For a few seconds, seemed to be going upriver. Then the current turned it sideways."

Radar Line Involved In 'Swap'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today that Canada and the United States have agreed to a joint aircraft production program to re-equip the RCAF and help NATO allies abroad.

The plan involves a swap of responsibilities: In return for taking over operation of 16 Pinetree radar stations now manned in this country by the U.S., Canada will receive 66 American F-101B Voodoo jet fighters for its RCAF home defence squadrons under North American Air Defence Command.

In addition, the U.S. and Canada will join in production in this country of $200,000,000 worth of American Starfighter jets for NATO allies in Europe under the mutual aid program. The U.S. will bear $150,000,000 of this cost.

The U.S. will save about $50,000,000 a year by Canada assuming the manning, operation, maintenance and financing of the 16 Pinetree stations. Only five Pinetree stations at the eastern extremity of the line in Labrador will remain an American responsibility.

EXTENDS OVER 3 YEARS

The F-104G Starfighter jets, now under order for RCAF squadrons in Europe, will be built for mutual aid in a program extending approximately three years, starting in mid-1963.

A government source said the program will provide about 7,000 Canadian jobs for that period through prime and secondary suppliers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the agreement, worked out in lengthy negotiations with the U.S. government, would ensure more effective use of the productive capacities, skills and resources of each country. It also would demonstrate the mutual determination of the two countries to strengthen NATO and North American air defence.

He said the Voodoo jet fighters to be obtained from the U.S. would be Canadian owned, and armed with conventional weapons. They will be used to re-equip the RCAF squadrons allocated to NORAD, and will be operated in accordance with NORAD plans.

REPLACE CF-100s

The squadrons have been flying the obsolete Canadian-designed CF-100 twin jet all-weather fighters.

The Voodoos will be delivered immediately and taken into service as rapidly as the air force can absorb them, he said.

The American planes are being obtained by Canada in return for the assumption by Canada of the U.S. commitment on the Pinetree Radar Line, which runs roughly parallel to the Canada-U.S. border, north of the more settled parts of Canada.

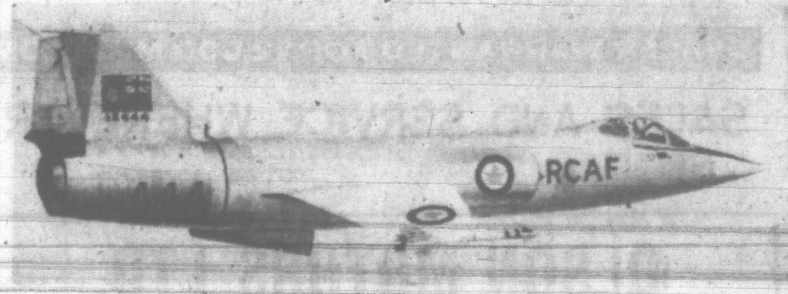

Lionel Crevier (L. Montreal Laurier), commenting on the announcement, said the cost to Canada of the three-cornered deal, as outlined by the prime minister, "may well be only the down payment."

PEARSON RAPS TORIES FOR DROPPING ARROW

WASHINGTON (CP)—Liberal Leader Lester B. Pearson said today if Canada's Conservative government had not stopped production of the CF-105 Arrow, the Canadian jet would have been available for the kind of job for which the government now is acquiring an American-made plane.

Pearson is here to speak before the U.S. Conference of Mayors.

F-104 STARFIGHTER to be built in Canada for NATO forces under deal with U.S. is shown here in RCAF markings.

General Electric Break-Up Considered by Washington

Mr. Chevier criticized the government for "procrastination" and "belated action" in working out the arrangement. He said it might have been reached much earlier if the government had put as much effort into selling the Arrow jet interceptor—a development program by Avro Aircraft at Malton, Ont., which was cancelled in 1958.

Mr. Diefenbaker replied that there has been no delay or procrastination.

"No one would buy the Arrow," he said. "That's the reason it wasn't sold."

H. W. Herridge (CCF—Kootenay West) made no direct comment on the announcement, but said it has "wider implications" in view of the cancellation of the Arrow jet program.

Phone Experts Meet Here For Two Days

More than 400 telephone experts from Washington, Oregon and British Columbia are coming here this week to attend a two-day conference opening at the Empress Hotel Thursday morning.

Meeting for the first time in Victoria will be members of the Oregon and Washington Independent Telephone Associations. Representatives of the B.C. Telephone Co. and the Okanagan Telephone Co. also will attend.

Discussions will cover a wide range of topics, including travel in outer space, microwave transmission, telephone installation problems and company economics.

The delegates will be welcomed Thursday morning by Mayor Percy Scurrell and Eric Mallett, Victoria manager of the B.C. Telephone Co.

Attorney-General Robert Bonner and Rev. William Hills will address the conference Friday morning.

Prizes totalling better than $2,000 will be offered at the Victoria Optimist Club bingo on Thursday in the Victoria Badminton Hall, starting at 8 p.m.

Mr. Diefenbaker did not mention the cost of the Voodoos or the U.S. saving in the Pinetree operation.

SAVING ESTIMATED
A Canadian Press Washington report, however, said the cost of the Voodoos was estimated at $120,000,000, and the U.S. saving on Pinetree about $50,000,000 a year.

For the $200,000,000 Starfighter contract, Canada will pay $50,000,000 and the U.S. $150,000,000.

Mr. Diefenbaker did not say in his statement where the planes would be built in Canada, but it was reported the aircraft order would go to Canadair Limited, Montreal, Oreanda Engines of Malton, Ont., was expected to supply the engines.

PRODUCE 48 A YEAR

The Starfighters are expected to start coming off the production lines in mid-1963, after RCAF squadrons in Europe are supplied. The production rate will be 48 a year, and the order will continue until the $200,000,000 is expended.

No figure was given for the number of Starfighters to be produced for mutual aid, but it was expected to be about 200. Canadair now is working on an order for 200 Starfighters valued at $206,400,000. These are the planes being used to re-equip eight of the RCAF's 12 squadrons in Europe.

There are about 40 Pinetree stations. The 16 now operated by the U.S. and to be taken over by Canada are at these locations:

Gander, Nfld.; Sydney, Beaverbank and Barrington in Nova Scotia; Saint Sylvestre and Moisie in Quebec; Sioux Lookout, Ramore, Pagwa, Lowther and Armstrong in Ontario; Beausejour, Man.; Saskatoon Mountain, Puntzi Mountain, Kamloops, and Baldy Hughes in British Columbia.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the three-part agreement covering the Pinetree line and the Voodoos and Starfighter planes was an important step in Canada-U.S. defence relations.

"It will make a significant contribution to the security of North America and to the European area of NATO as well," he added.

NEW YORK (AP)—The U.S. government is reported considering a court battle to break up General Electric Co., as one possible means of preventing another price-fixing conspiracy.

Both the New York Times and the Wall Street Journal say Assistant Attorney-General Lee Loevinger has warned GE's representatives that they may find themselves in a disreputable position.

The warning was reported to have come after GE refused to sign a consent decree.

The decree is an alternative to a civil suit in which the government would ask relief from the collusive and monopolistic practices of which GE and 28 other electrical equipment manufacturers were convicted early this year.

As now drafted, however, the consent decree would commit the companies to much more than putting an end to the conspiracy of which they were convicted earlier.

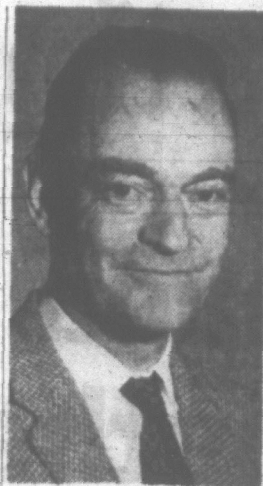

The companies would have to agree to refrain from selling "at unreasonably low prices" without knowing at what point the government or the court would consider their prices "unreasonably low."

Ontario Hanging Set for Tonight

OTTAWA (UPI)—Owen Maxwell (Mickey) Feener, a 23-year-old drifter who killed one girl and bragged of killing another, shortly after midnight will become the first person to be hanged in Canada since the government introduced legislation to soften the capital punishment laws.

The solicitor-general's office announced today the cabinet will not commute Feener's sentence.

He was convicted in Cochrane, Ont., of the murder, Oct. 5 of Kathleen Chouinor, 26.

EICHMANN TRIAL

Court Admits 'Confession'

JERUSALEM (UPI)—The three-man Israeli court trying Adolf Eichmann for mass murder accepted in evidence by majority decision today parts of a "confession" by him while a fugitive in Buenos Aires five years ago.

The trial then adjourned until June 20. The week's recess is to give the defence additional time to prepare its arguments.

Handing down the decision, presiding Judge Moshe Landau announced the court would accept only the 83 pages in Eichmann's own handwriting. But the bulk of the "confession," dictated by Eichmann into a tape recorder were rejected as evidence except portions needed to explain the written passages.

Landau announced that the dissenting voice was that of assistant Judge Benjamin Halevi, who favored accepting the entire "confession," both written and tape-recorded, as evidence.

The so-called "confession" was recorded on 67 tapes, all but five of which are in the hands of the Israeli prosecution. State prosecutor Gideon Hausner told the court that the total transcript runs to 716 pages in German, in addition to which there are 83 pages in Eichmann's own handwriting. Hausner had fought hard since Friday to win court acceptance of the entire document. Eichmann's German defence lawyer Dr. Robert Servatius, claiming that it was obtained after Eichmann had been "plied with drink," had demanded its rejection.

The purported "confession" was alleged to have been made by Eichmann in 1956 and 1957 to a former Dutch SS Major Willem Sassen.

The Israeli prosecution refused to disclose how the tapes were obtained.

According to Hausner, parts of the "confession" provided the raw material for the so-called Eichmann "memoirs" published by Life magazine last December.

CRANE HOISTS JFK TO PLANE

PALM BEACH, Fla. (UPI)—President Kennedy, suffering from a painful back ailment, was hoisted aboard his air force jet by a hydraulic crane today as he left for Washington.

The White House said Kennedy decided it would be "safer" for him to be elevated into the plane than to try and climb the steps with aid of crutches he has been using.

'Forestry Dept: Needs More Money, Effort'

(From Times News Service)

OTTAWA — The new federal forestry department has come under Commons criticism as needing more effort and more money to do a real job.

Forestry Minister Fleming introduced the spending estimates of his department for the first time.

Mr. Fleming outlined his department's aims: improved management and protection of forests, more effective use of wood-including reduction of waste, and improvement of the industry's competitive position.

He promised an expansion of forestry research and special attention to enlarging export markets.

Jean-Paul Racine (L-Beauce), a lumber manufacturer and dealer, said the department should intensify research to meet demands for forest products and establish a marketing branch and send missions abroad to sell more lumber, pulp and other products.

He said the government had rejected a deserving request by the Federation of Provincial Forestry Associations for a $200,000 increase in its $80,000 annual federal grant.

H. W. Herridge (CCF-Kootenay), a British Columbia lumber man, said the main essential for the department's success is co-operation with provincial governments.

There also was need for a national policy for the conservation, development and use of all renewable natural resources.

'Hit-and-Miss' Tax Policies Rapped

He criticized "hit and miss" tax policies which he said provide tax exemptions to big forest operators but not to small ones. He said that in British Columbia, the provincial government taxes owners of private land on their capital in the form of standing timber as well as charging royalties for timber cutting.

Dr. Hugh Horner (PC-Jasper-Edson) criticized the Alberta government for not requesting federal aid in combating serious forest fires in northwest Alberta.

Due to "unnatural pride in provincial rights," more than 105,000 acres of forest land had been burned or were on fire.

There should be federal co-ordination of fire-fighting efforts across the country to provide for multiple use of fire-fighting equipment and employment of the army and RCAF where needed.

He suggested that the federal government use its forestry grants to the provinces as "a lever to ensure that the provinces accept their responsibilities."

Canadians should not expect the RCMP to assume sole responsibility for policing the growing use of small pleasure boats, Justice Minister Fulton said.

He said the provinces and municipalities should assume extra responsibility in enforcing regulations on operation of pleasure craft.

The minister said some regulations applying to pleasure boats will be transferred from the Canadian Shipping Act to the Criminal Code under a bill to be introduced later in the session. This would mean it no longer would be the sole responsibility of the RCMP to enforce them.

Special Police Units for Disasters?

The RCMP is studying the formation of auxiliary and reserve units in major centres across Canada to meet the emergency that might arise in a national disaster such as nuclear war, Mr. Fulton said.

The RCMP planned to have a nucleus of reservists who would not be regular police officers, but could be called on duty if needed at short notice. Mr. Fulton was replying to Harold Winch (CCF-Vancouver East) who asked what would happen if half the Ontario provincial police and two-thirds of the RCMP were wiped out in an atomic attack.

Mr. Winch was one of two opposition MPs who were observed during the recent civil defence exercise, Tocsin 1961.

17 Killed As Algeria Riots Flare

ALGIERS (Reuters) — Tension gripped Algeria today after at least 17 persons were killed in the worst weekend of violence since Franco-Algerian insurgent peace talks opened in France three weeks ago.

About 50 persons were injured and at least 12 bombs exploded in the North African territory as both Moslems and Europeans reacted to a reported deadlock in the talks in the Alpine town of Evian aimed at ending the 6½-year nationalist uprising.

At Oran, Algeria's second largest city, police today held 25 persons after a clash last Sunday night between security forces and settlers who set fire to 12 Moslem stores while chanting, "Algeria is French."

In Oran, two persons were killed and several wounded in five knife and pistol attacks by Moslems on European settlers.

The worst insurgent attack in the heart of Algiers since 1957 came Sunday night when a grenade was tossed into a crowded bar injuring nine settlers.

Two persons were killed and 23 injured in four other grenade attacks on settler cafes in Algiers during the weekend.

French troops killed five Moslem insurgents after the rebels shot dead a French soldier on patrol at Tiarret, east of Algiers.

AILING skipper of Russian fishing trawler, Capt. A. V. Grigorovich, 33, anchored his ship in Boston harbor Sunday to seek medical aid. He is suffering from gastritis and one of crew has a strained back. They were taken to hospital. Ship had been fishing for herring off Grand Banks. (AP Wirephoto.)

DISPUTE FLARES

Bombs Blast Communities In S. Tyrol

BOLZANO, Italy (AP) — Violent pre-dawn explosions ripped through a half-dozen communities of the disputed South Tyrol today, spreading darkness and terror in the area. A later explosion killed a road worker.

Police said the road worker had found a dynamite charge and was about to report to police when it exploded.

He was first fatality of a long-smoldering dispute between Italy and Austria, in which extremists demand that Italy grant autonomy to the large German-speaking population in the South Tyrol.

Police said they had taken about 20 German-speaking residents of the area into custody for questioning in the series of early-morning blasts.

Reports indicated at least 20 separate dynamite explosions occurred in little more than an hour.

Industries in Bolzano, capital city of the South Tyrol with a population of 85,000, and Merano were hit. The explosions cut off power to the Montecatini aluminum works, the Lancia automobile factory, steel industries around Bolzano and the Montecatini chemical works and other factories at Merano.

Italy acquired the region from Austria after the First World War.

FEAR FOR LIVES
In the process many of the 4,500,000 people in an area almost the size of Quebec province are fearing for their lives. Some unaccountable number—well into the thousands—already have died.

The uprising now is in its fourth month and shows signs only of intensifying.

Planes and ships with Portuguese troops arrive weekly, building up for sweeping operations late next month when the tall elephant grass is dried out and burnt, depriving the native guerrillas of their best hiding places.

About 15,000 Portuguese troops now are on the spot ready for action. Three months ago there were no more than 1,000 white soldiers in Angola.

The Hope of Neutralism

THE TROUBLES AND THE MIS- takes in such places as Cuba and Laos, the conferences in such places as Paris and Vienna, the threats to such places as Berlin, have generally obscured a basic shift in American foreign policy and perhaps the largest decision so far made by President Kennedy.

Even in his recent major message to the Congress the key sentences, indicating his long-range thoughts, were largely overlooked because his immediate plans were more dramatic.

But the President's inner mind is clearly revealed by his declaration that the United States no longer condemns neutralism in foreign nations, as it was condemned by his Republican and Democratic predecessors. From now on, Mr. Kennedy says, the United States accepts neutralism if it is genuine. More than that, it will support constructive social "revolution" in underdeveloped countries "regardless of which political or economic route they should choose to freedom."

Too often, but through no fault of its own, the United States has found itself supporting reactionary governments simply because they were the only apparent alternatives to Communist governments. Urging freedom, it nourished the foes of freedom. Fearing Communism, it did not fear enough the enemies of Communism who used the United States' money and power only to suppress social progress. Naturally concerned with the Communist revolution, it did not concern itself sufficiently with the need of a different kind of revolution in lands of poverty and corruption.

Mr. Kennedy, the contemporary heir of the American Revolution, is the first president to see plainly that revolution, in some form, must come in many places where a privileged group clings to power only with American support and thus discredits American motives.

Though this grim paradox has been grasped by the President he cannot easily break it. In the current struggle of the world, as in any war, a nation cannot be too particular in choosing friends. But the doctrine propounded by the late Mr. John Foster Dulles, that all those who are not fully with the United States must necessarily be against it, has been quietly repealed by Mr. Kennedy. He will not attempt to suppress social revolution where it is desirable, probably inevitable anyway. He will encourage it, however it may damage the ruling groups, provided the revolution is not merely a Russian tool.

Thus the President abandons a myth long sacred in his nation and in others like Canada, the myth that democracy is the natural state of man, that only our Western forms of government can finally solve the human dilemma. We have seen enough in recent years to realize that the dilemma is too vast and varied for any single solution, any common system of ideas; that many peoples are far from being able to manage the democratic process, which we do not manage too well ourselves after long experience.

Accepting neutralism and social revolution in principle, is Mr. Kennedy prepared to accept it in fact? Evidently he is, as indicated by the test case of Laos. All he asks there—a drastic reversal of the Dulles doctrine—is a state which will not be an active ally of Russia.

He may not be able even to secure that much but whatever happens in Laos, other tests will soon arise in other places, since the world revolution surges on in countless versions, under improbable leaders.

Not long hence, we may be sure, the United States will have to accept new governments and social systems alien to all its own methods and desires because futile resistance must drive desperate peoples to the alternative of Russia, which preaches neutralism and always tries to undermine it.

Dying 'In a Good Cause'?

THE HON. EARL ROWE speaks for many Canadians when he supports retention of the death penalty as a deterrent to murder.

There is an obvious and honest division of opinion on that point.

His argument becomes somewhat obscure, however, when he discusses the hanging of certain accused persons whose murder convictions have proved unjustified after they have been executed.

"If two or three who were near crime were hanged but probably should not have been hanged," he says, "if they were a deterrent in order to save society in general, I think they died in a good cause."

This is peculiar, but not entirely unknown reasoning. Many societies in the past have practised human sacrifice, presumably in the interests of saving the particular societies concerned. Did those human sacrifices die in a good cause?

Is Mr. Rowe doing anything other than justifying this primitive concept in the statement he made to the House of Commons?

Look at it from another angle: There is nothing unpremeditated about an execution. It involves the taking of human life in what, in this country, is a legally sanctioned operation planned to the last detail, which is the specialist's tying of the hangman's knot. When it is carried out on a person later proved innocent of the crime, how is society, whose unhappy instrument was the hangman, saved?

Mr. Rowe's rhetoric has outrun his reason in this statement. He doubtless appreciates that fact on sober reflection. Outside the perpetrators of Lidice and similar blots on the human conscience, execution of the innocent cannot be condoned as a means of keeping even the homicidally dangerous in line.

An Ounce of Prevention

AT ITS MEETING LAST Wednesday the Community Welfare Council of Greater Victoria received a report with recommendations from its sub-committee studying juvenile delinquency.

Neither the council nor the sub-committee assumed that the recommendations provided a complete blueprint for the cure of juvenile delinquency or its elimination in this region.

There were, however, some constructive suggestions included in the report worthy of public interest. One, perhaps the most constructive from a preventive point of view, aimed at identifying small children behaving in such a way that they were headed for trouble unless they were given treatment.

The committee recommended that specially trained persons, in a ratio of one to every 500 students in the elementary schools, be engaged to give advice and assistance to parents of such potential problem children.

The point was made that teachers, in the course of their regular work, were in a position to identify certain traits among their students which required attention. The teacher could draw them to the notice of the specially trained worker and the specialist could then consult the parents, pointing to existing agencies and services which might help them.

If such an arrangement could prevent the development of serious juvenile delinquency by nipping it in the bud, the proposed counselling service would be economical as well as valuable in a social way.

From a practical point of view the plan has special merits. The early grades of school provide opportunities for observing almost all the children in the community. Their idiosyncracies are apparent and where those idiosyncracies indicate a drift into habits of delinquency, they are surely more easily corrected than when the habit pattern has been firmly established in the older school child.

Public utility companies with smart public relations departments do things like this occasionally. You never hear, though, of a telephone company erecting a phone outside the average home where teen-age fledglings roost perpetually on the phone inside.

THEY APPLAUDED THE ADVICE

By B. A. TOBIN

Can You Conform Without Being Submerged?

IT was an interesting experience to see 311 young men and women crowded on the stage and wings in the Victoria High School auditorium the other evening, and to hear them urged by Professor Charles Burchill not to allow themselves to become the victims of conformity.

It was excellent advice and very trenchantly delivered. But you could not help wondering if perhaps this advice ran counter to all that these young people had been absorbing through twelve years of schooling. Were these words of wisdom, on the eve of their departure into the world of higher learning or the world of higher earning, a complete reversal of what they had had drilled into them since their first day at school?

There they sat, a fine and lifting sight, rank upon rank of the best youth our community can produce. What was there to indicate to the watching parents and friends that these young people were receptive to a call to individualism, to self-expression, to avoidance of the "single mould"?

The 170 or so boys shared about three different styles of haircut; their suits varied slightly in color but not noticeably in cut; their lapels held 170 identical boutonnieres. There was a certain amount of variety in their choice of neckties, but the limits were conservative. The chief variation appeared in their faces and bodily sizes—characteristics over which they had no control.

The girls displayed some variety in coloring and cut of their formal dresses, but white predominated and was obviously "the" style. There were varied coiffures, noticeable chiefly for their adherence to the recognized fashions of the day, and hence, even in their slight variety, evidence of conformity.

On the visual evidence, these young graduates-to-be were, if not from one mould, at least from a limited number of models. But what of the non-visible qualities?

You wondered, as you heard Prof. Burchill urge nonconformity, if he, with his wealth of teaching experience, was very sanguine regarding the effect of his words. Was he trying to buck, within the space of a few minutes, the cumulative effect of twelve years of strong conformist influence, or had the school system consistently encouraged the quality of mind which the speaker of the evening—and apparently all his hearers—regarded as desirable and valuable?

Only an investigation of each mind—an impossible proceeding among those massed young heads on the platform—could provide an answer. But the suspicion exists that if nonconformity were to be found, it would be in spite of the educational system rather than because of it.

That is not to condemn the system as a malignant monster determined to stamp out individual thinking among its classroom audiences. Whatever the intentions, almost inseparable from a mass educational system must be a trend toward the mass mind. In fact a good argument may be made for the belief that under classroom conditions the student must willingly conform in order to take in the knowledge presented—there is so little time for him to question or fight the facts or theories poured on him.

Shall he question this established theory? Or should he gulp it down and accept it in order that he may have it ready to return to the authorities when they ask for it on an examination paper? If he accepts without question the theorem of Pythagoras or Boyle's Law, or the textbook's presentation of Canadian history, where will he be able to make a stand in questioning some less obvious assertions of his teachers?

And if he does not learn to question what is generally accepted, how can he be a successful nonconformist?

The difficulties of becoming a nonconformist under such conditions is obvious. The pressures against remaining one, if by chance one is created, are even stronger.

The community of the schoolyard does not like nonconformity. The nonconformist is an odd-ball, a square, a crack-pot and can very easily become an outlaw. Divergence from the sweater, pearls, saddle oxford combination, even nonconformity in the length of a hemline, can blight a student's social career, mark her as not "one of the crowd." The difference may not be harshly applied, but it will be there and show in various ways.

Similarly with the boy who holds ideas that few of his fellows accept. There will be no relinquishment of the pressure on him until he decides to swim with the current, or until he becomes firmly established as beyond the pale.

Nonconformists who emerge after twelve years of such a classroom and schoolyard environment must surely be desperate individuals, who probably have a greater urge to fight the established system because it is established, than to seek out new and better things. Prof. Burchill presented some difficult advice. What he seems to have said, in essence, is: Having been trained for twelve years, whether consciously or unconsciously, to conform, I now exhort you to go out into a world of conformity and be nonconformists.

Inevitably, the numbers are going to be limited. But as Prof. Burchill said in concluding his remarks, "Thank goodness there are still a few."

Japan Resents Our Trade Restrictions

By MAURICE WESTERN, From Ottawa

ALTHOUGH Mr. Fleming has expressed surprise at statements attributed to the Japanese Ambassador in Regina, the minister's comments in the House of Commons appear to be essentially an essay in semantics. It is not at all clear from Mr. Fleming's remarks that the two men are in disagreement as to the pertinent facts, although they certainly disagree on the significance of those facts.

Mr. Pearson, who raised the matter, called the minister's attention to two statements by Mr. Hagiwara. One was that Japan is becoming resentful over the need to fix quotas on its exports to Canada. The other was that Japan had been forced to accept curbs on exports under the threat that Canada, otherwise, would resort to such measures as the arbitrary fixation of values for duty purposes.

In his reply the minister said that he had seen the report on which Mr. Pearson relied. It was in fact a good deal more comprehensive than the question suggested. Mr. Hagiwara noted that the limitation on exports had been continually increased until it covered about half of the dollar value of Japanese exports to Canada.

"We are not," he said, "very happy about this kind of situation." Japan was the only country accepting such limitations and, if they were abused by a trading partner, it would be tantamount to the application of discriminatory measures against Japan.

Moreover, said Mr. Hagiwara, Japan had accepted the system only on the basis that quotas were intended to regulate the rate of increase of particular exports. The Canadian government, in the latest negotiations, had pressed for quota reductions. Japan had not expected to be faced with such a request.

Mr. Fleming made no direct denial of any of these assertions. He said that the restraints had been accepted by the Japanese government and that "the kind of statements attributed to the Japanese ambassador . . . is not in harmony or in tune with the letter written to me in setting forth those restraints which the Japanese government is voluntarily applying in 1961 on these designated commodities."

The letter was a formal communication, dated May 15, 1961, couched in the usual polite language of diplomacy. If Mr. Fleming regards it as a cordial note from the grateful representative of a foreign government, he must be relying upon a few stylized phrases, such as "I am now pleased to inform you . . ." Perhaps Mr. Hagiwara would have given more accurate expression to his feelings if he had simply written: "please find enclosed."

In fact the note is in part a summary of decisions, quite evidently taken with much reluctance, and in part a statement of Japan's case.

It does indeed make the point that the measures are taken by the Japanese government "in its own accord." The reason becomes obvious from the second, last paragraph which states: "In communicating this information to you, I assume that . . . Canada will not, during the year 1961, invoke the provisions of article XIX of the GATT or those of the exchange of letters annexed to the agreement of commerce of 1954 between Canada and Japan."

In plain words Japan has been assured that Canada will not take unilateral action to keep out Japanese products.

Elsewhere the ambassador refers to "exceptional" decisions, "exceptional" reduction . . . which should not be regarded as a precedent." All this seems to be perfectly in harmony with his Regina statement that: "We are not very happy with this kind of situation."

Was Japan under threat that Canada would resort to arbitrary fixation of values unless the Japanese authorities co-operated by "voluntary" quotas? Mr. Fleming evaded this question.

WASHINGTON:

Grim Warnings

By MAX FREEDMAN

THE clearest report on the Vienna conference has come from Murray Marder, diplomatic correspondent of the Washington Post. He reports that President Kennedy and Soviet Premier Nikita Khrushchev grimly warned each other in Vienna that each would use force if necessary in the Berlin crisis. This obviously was what President Kennedy meant in his report to the nation when he said "our most sombre talks were on the subject of Germany and Berlin."

Khrushchev, it was learned, told the president in Vienna that the Soviet Union would sign its own peace treaty with Communist East Germany if no one else would join in a general peace treaty.

If the allies tried to ignore this Soviet transfer to East Germany of control over the access routes to West Berlin, said Khrushchev, the East Germans would use force to stop the west from going through—and the Soviet Union would support this use of force.

In other words, the Soviet Union would regard any allied attempt to push past the East Germans as an act of belligerence.

President Kennedy, in turn, gave Khrushchev this warning: regardless of what the Soviet Union might sign with East Germany, the United States would hold the Soviet Union responsible for maintaining the west's war-war access rights to West Berlin. If there is any attempt to interfere with allied access to the prewar German capital, the president continued, the west would use force to break through to the city, which is 110 miles inside East Germany.

Further, the west would consider any Communist attempt to interfere with its rights of access an act of belligerence. The president stressed that the very existence of the United States as well as of Europe was involved with the Berlin issue, which America by no means considers an isolated question. Khrushchev said it could lead to war if any attempt was made to bypass the East Germans in allied transit to Berlin once a peace treaty was signed.

Blunt Terms

While this exchange was conducted in stark, blunt terms, the president noted in his speech that there was no discourtesy, threats, loss of tempers or ultimatums on either side.

Mr. Marder says that at the end of Sunday's talks in the Soviet embassy in Vienna, Khrushchev handed the president two documents. One was an aide memoire on Berlin. The other was an aide memoire on disarmament. Both documents were almost literal summaries of what Khrushchev had said in his talks with the president, and conformed to the standing Soviet positions on both topics.

The Berlin document recapitulated the Soviet demands on Berlin since Khrushchev in November 1958 called for ending allied occupation rights in West Berlin and converting West Berlin into a demilitarized "free city."

This would cut the city off from West Germany and end its status as a western outpost. Khrushchev claimed in his talks with Mr. Kennedy that Berlin was on the sovereign territory of East Germany. Land, sea and air access right, therefore, would have to be obtained from the East Germans.

Khrushchev set forth for the west the familiar three Soviet choices which really add up to no choice at all: either sign a peace treaty with all Germany; sign separate peace treaties with West Germany or East Germany, or the Soviet Union would sign its own peace treaty with East Germany along with any other nations which wish to join.

In the disarmament memorandum, Khrushchev reiterated the current Soviet position that by attempting to obtain controls for a nuclear test ban the west is really seeking espionage information. If the west accepted "general and complete disarmament," however, said Khrushchev, any control agreement would be acceptable.

Three Points

Instead of a test ban, he said, the important thing was to eliminate foreign bases, ban atomic weapons and limit conventional armament.

The Khrushchev notes on Berlin and disarmament have been made available by the United States to other members of the North Atlantic alliance.

Informed officials, both American and British, do not anticipate any immediate new Soviet pressure on Berlin. There was no added sense of urgency conveyed by Khrushchev in the Vienna meeting. But, as one allied source put it, the Russians are engaged in "a strong, continuous turning of the screw."

The expectation is that the Soviet Union will try to force a new showdown on Berlin late this year.

This comment was intended to leave the way open for further exploration of the crisis before it reaches an explosive stage. There is always the possibility that Khrushchev may take a new tack and propose further negotiations with the west on Berlin or other diplomatic forms of easing a showdown.

British sources note this continuing factor in the Berlin crisis: while the Soviets can turn on the pressure at will, signing the peace treaty with East Germany is their "hole card" and while it can be dangled often as a threat, once actually played it is gone forever.

Diplomats see at least one ray of hope in the fact that Khrushchev has now heard from the man who holds the final power of decision for the west that a move against Berlin could mean war.

Mr. Marder writes that the western allies are now engaged in contingency military planning to use force if necessary. If this action endangers their access to West Berlin, this planning is expected to be intensified by both east and west as a result of the Vienna talks.

Straighten Cross-Eyes

Emeritus Consultant in Medicine, Mayo Clinic and Emeritus Professor of Medicine, Mayo Foundation

According to Dr. Roy O. Scholz of Johns Hopkins University, one in 50 children starts out in life cross-eyed. Certainly, no parent should allow his child to go out into life handicapped in this way. He will lose the use of one eye and he will suffer mental tortures.

I remember well a handsome woman of 50 who was morose and bitter because, until she was 30, she had lived at home with a dour old father who was so deeply religious that he would not permit her to be operated on for a bad squint.

By the time he died and she was set free, and had a straightening operation, she was so bitter and bad-tempered that she never got a beau and never married.

Parents should know that sometimes a child's squint can be corrected with glasses, and so they should quickly take him to a good ophthalmologist. The eye that turns in or out does so often because it does not see as well as the other eye does. As a result, the brain cannot fuse the images obtained from the two eyes, and so one eye has to go practically blind.

What is sad is that once the sight in one eye is lost, the ophthalmologist is not likely to be able to bring it back. Even when the bad eye is quickly straightened and glasses are fitted, the child may not be able to get what is called binocular vision, with the two eyes working together.

Such vision is very important to us because it tells us how far away things are from us. Normally, our two eyes work like a navy's range-finder, and this range-finding is very important to workmen in certain trades.

Alvarez

For instance, when I was first out of college I saw a young blacksmith who had lost one eye when a piece of hot steel flew into it. Then he discovered that he could no longer estimate distances on a piece of glowing iron, and as a result he had to quit being a blacksmith.

Some old women say that all babies are cross-eyed, but this is not true. What happens is that in the cases of some infants co-ordination of the eye-movements is not perfect until after the child is three months old.

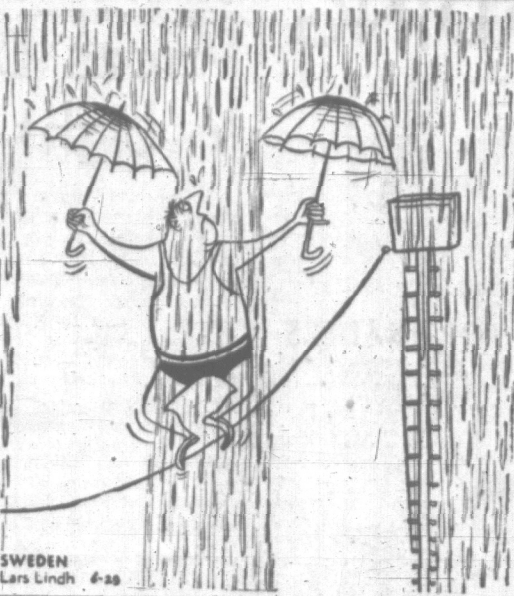

If a child has a decided "error of refraction," he should have glasses prescribed as early as possible. It is surprising how early some small children will wear needed glasses.

Perhaps the child soon realizes that with the glasses he sees better, and hence he is glad to wear them. Children very seldom get into trouble from breaking their glasses. Such glasses are generally put into strong frames in which they are hard to break.

Dr. Scholz says that if, with the proper glasses, the child's eyes remain straight, well and good, but if the eyes do not straighten quickly, eye exercises may be tried; also, the dominant or good eye may have to be covered with a patch. This will force the child to use his poor eye and thereby to make it work better.

If he is to use a patch, it must be kept on for all the waking hours, and for so long as the ophthalmologist wants it to be used. If the wearing of glasses and the wearing of a patch fails to straighten the eye, then an operation must be considered. This carries practically no risk.

The child should be told that he is going to the hospital to have his eye straightened. He should be told that it will not hurt, and hence he need not be frightened. He will be asleep when the work is performed. The parents should not show much alarm and concern.

New Era Dawns for Quebec With Lesage-Led 'Revolt'

QUEBEC (CP) — Quebec province now is launched irrevocably on a new course.

The Liberal administration of Premier Jean Lesage, after an unprecedented 107-day legislative hassle with the Union Nationale Opposition in the legislature, wound up the longest session in Quebec history Saturday when it voted through the final pieces of legislation that from now on sets the pace for what some observers are calling a revolution.

The session opened November 10 and was spread over seven months.

Highlights: free and compulsory education to the 11th grade; a multi-million-dollar university expansion program; full-scale co-operation with other Canadian provinces and the federal government in national hospital insurance; a provincial family allowance system; the opening of Quebec government agencies in Europe.

Other legislation reflects profound changes. The behind-the-scenes atmosphere in the government, liquor business, has been eliminated. The new Quebec Liquor Board hears applications for licences at public hearings. Quebec motorists have been made financially responsible for victims of high-way accidents.

PURSUED TWO THEMES

The new government hammered away at two main ideas through the session.

1. The most powerful instrument in the hands of the French-Canadian people is their provincial government. With it they could achieve economic security and profit more largely from the development of natural resources.

2. The people of Quebec must devote most of their energies to education and the development of French culture. Quebec could not hope to occupy a prominent place in the over-all North-American picture as a great industrial power. But cultural and technical achievements were accessible and desirable.

The Union Nationale opposition charged that in applying

Soviet German Policy Not Acceptable—Rusk

WASHINGTON (AP) — State Secretary Dean Rusk says it's obvious the United States does not agree with the latest Soviet proposals on Germany and Berlin.

He declined to say when the United States would reply.

Rusk told reporters Sunday night "anything involving Germany and Berlin is something that will have to be discussed with other governments."

President Kennedy will bring up the Soviet proposals when he meets at the White House today with Italian Prime Minister Amintore Fanfani.

The Soviet proposals were contained in a memo which Moscow made public Saturday. The Russians had handed the memo to U.S. officials at Vienna a week ago following Kennedy's meeting with Soviet Premier Khrushchev.

OFFER NOT NEW

U.S. officials said the memo basically was a reoffering of previous Soviet proposals which the West has rejected.

Khrushchev called for an immediate peace conference on Germany. The conference would write a peace treaty to fix Germany's irrevocable borders, make West Berlin a demilitarized "free city," and the Allied occupation of Berlin and turn over control of its life-lines to the East German Communists.

If the West does not want an immediate conference on Germany, Khrushchev said, then West and Communist East Germany should work out a settlement themselves in six months.

West German Chancellor

Konrad Adenauer and Mayor Willy Brandt of West Berlin were united Sunday in terming unacceptable Khrushchev's proposal.

HOME GARDEN

By HILDA BEASTALL

All Dressed Up Under New Name

Some of the old-fashioned flowers disappear from modern gardens and when they are shown at flower shows the public look upon as being new.

One of these old-time flowers seen at the weekend Victoria West show used to be known as Red Valerian; now listed as Centranthus.

In many old local gardens where it has been left to its own devices it is common enough and spreads readily by root and self-sown seedlings.

THREE FEET HIGH

It is a perennial plant, growing to a height of about three feet, and the leaves are a pleasing glaucous green, clasping the stiff stems without benefit of individual leaf stems.

Flower heads are large, in cone shapes five to seven inches deep. Numerous side branches carry similar heads and if the heads are removed as blossoms fade more will develop and seeds will be prevented from dropping and spreading into unwanted places. It can be obtained in red, white or pink.

Betony was another flower which made its appearance at the show. For a while the true identity of this flower was unknown and then someone came up with the name of betony.

Tracing this name in Bailey's Dictionary of Gardening, we found the botanical name of Stachys (stak'iss) officinalis. Betony has been mentioned in old novels and verse for hundreds of years, yet it is seldom known or cultivated in gardens today.

IT'S PLEASING

It has a pleasing, warm purplish-mauve flower head in an elongated roundish spike. Individually the blossoms are over a half-inch in length, but a complete head will measure as much as a foot. This is also a perennial, but I do not know whether it propagates readily from seeds or only by division of the plants.

Many of these old-fashioned flowers are well worth growing in our gardens today. They should be controlled so that they don't spread too wildly, but well-cultivated specimens add interest to a perennial border or bed.

ISLAND VIEWPOINT

Service

SIDNEY REVIEW — With the advent of the summer season a plague of activity has broken out all over Saanich Peninsula. Small boys and bigger boys are eagerly donning their uniforms to take part in the schedules of the Little League. Every week there is a rash of baseball games in various parts of the Peninsula.

The youthful players are more than delighted to take part in the games offered and they appear promptly to the practices which are laid on by the sponsors.

While the players frequently merit commendation for their efforts on the ball field, this aspect of the Little League is readily apparent to us all. The part which is not so clear is the manner in which the adult participants devote the majority of their free time to the boys.

Coaches, managers and other functionaries engaged in fielding a team of boys are engaged for at least three evenings weekly. As from the time they undertook to assist the Little League players, they forfeited their free time. It is an extremely demanding job and the sponsors deserve great credit for the time and effort they have devoted to it.

Why Give It Back?

COMOX DISTRICT FREE PRESS — What was behind the council's decision to return the $300 to the Victoria and Island Publicity Committee?

The city thinks it got a poor deal from the committee in that Courtenay wasn't mentioned in the map destined for distribution in advertising in the States and on the Prairies. Council asked for its money back and got it.

It seems that council lost a great chance to show Victoria that there is such an area as "Up-Island." If the city had kept the money, other towns up this way would have paid attention and next year perhaps the northern centres might have got together to insist, as a body, that Victoria played fair with the rest of the Island.

But the people down-Island got away with it once. Will they try it again?

Agreement

WEST COAST ADVOCATE — Although they have been sitting for a number of weeks, and only an ominous quiet prevailed, the announcement this past few days that the negotiating teams from the IWA and Forest Industrial Relations had reached an agreement was good news to everyone whose work depends upon the continual operation of the mills and camps, as well as business generally.

It is gratifying that these men could sit down and after delving into all the problems which are a basic part of such negotiations, could come up with an initial compromise that looks workable to both sides.

It would be impossible to obtain all that was desired, but when the representatives of the men come down with a recommendation it indicates that they have given much thought to the entire problem, and their verdict will no doubt be endorsed by the membership at large.

Flood Threat Ended

(Compiled from CP)

TRAIL — Civil defence authorities began planning a massive clean-up campaign today as the flood threat ended along the Columbia and Kootenay Rivers in southeastern British Columbia.

Water levels were dropping on both rivers as cooler weather that began last week continued, slowing mountain runoff and easing the strain on saturated dikes.

Authorities said it will be several days before flood waters — from seepage through dikes along the Columbia — will subside from downtown Trail streets to allow merchants to start cleaning up.

The water level was dropping on Main Street today. High-water marks could be seen on buildings.

The cooler weather for three days broke the back of the flood threat and the forecast called for more of the same.

DIES IN FIRE

VANCOUVER — Johnny Paul, a 54-year-old logger, was burned to death in a fire which destroyed his home in the Sookumchuck Indian Reserve at the north end of Harrison Lake during the weekend.

Agassiz RCMP said Paul, brother of Chief Dan Paul, of the reserve, was alone in the house.

BIG SURPRISE

VANCOUVER — A Chant Royal Commission member says he got the surprise of his life when he learned he would get $7,500 for his work on the commission.

"It was something I hadn't expected, it came as a complete surprise to me," John E. Liersch said here Friday night.

An order-in-council authorizing honorariums of $15,000 to commission chairman Dean S. N. F. Chant and $7,500 to commissioners Liersch and Riley P. Walrod, Kelowna, was passed in Victoria.

KILLED IN CRASH

NELSON (CP) — James Terry Solecki, 18, of Slocan was killed Saturday when a truck driven by a juvenile left Highway No. 6 near Slocan.

The driver, a resident of Winlaw, escaped injury when the 1949-model truck left the highway in a long skidding arc, crashed on its side and came to rest on its roof.

The two youths were on their way home at 5 a.m. at the time from high school graduation ceremonies.

P. T. ROGERS DIES

VANCOUVER — Funeral services will be held Monday for Philip Tingley Rogers, chairman of the board of directors of the British Columbia Sugar Refining Co., who died Friday at the age of 53.

Mr. Rogers, son of the late B. T. Rogers, founder of the firm, became president in 1939 and board chairman eight years ago.

He is survived by the widow, Jean; his mother, Mrs. B. T. Rogers; three sons and one daughter.

PLAGUE DECLINING

TRAIL — The balance of nature appears to be modifying a plague of caterpillars infesting hillsides above nearby Warfield village.

Horticulturists told health officials Friday the caterpillars are being devoured by maggots hatching from eggs laid by bush flies which also infest the area this time of year.

The caterpillars have cut wide paths across the hillsides, stripping deciduous trees bare of leaves and infesting gardens.

How to get your Touring Kit
Tell your Shell dealer where you want to go. He'll send a special information request card to Shell Touring Service. Within days he'll have your personalized Shell Touring Kit ready for you.

Scenic or fast routes planned
Shell touring consultants plot a choice of routes for you—the most direct or the most scenic.

The routes are clearly marked with a broad green line that does not obscure map details. You don't strain your eyes hunting for the right direction.

Shell maps contain a fantastic wealth of detailed information essential to the road traveller.

Trans Canada highway, provincial highways and plain country roads—all are there, in full colour and easy to identify. If you travel to the United States, you will also find turnpikes, toll roads and freeways unmistakably indicated. And a mileage guide is included in each Shell map.

Parks, camping and attractions Shell maps tell you a lot about the country you visit. National parks, provincial parks and historic monuments are shown. For the growing number of campers, camp sites are properly noted.

The most important and most enjoyable part of your Shell Touring Kit is a complete collection of brochures covering the provinces or states you will travel through. Whether you prefer fishing, hiking, sightseeing, country fairs, summer festivals or botanical attractions, these brochures put you "in the know" before you hit the road.

Shell also includes a handy guide to lodging and eating facilities. You can "pick and choose" ahead of time and save yourself the dreary job of hunting for food or accommodation.

Keeping track of expenses
Shell's touring experts send you a three part expense record.

Part one is for personal expenses—stops, meals, lodging, entertainment.

Part two is a daily record for car expenses—gasoline, oil, lubrication.

Part three is a record for accessories, repairs, and a grand total of expenses for the entire trip.

Safety tips before you leave

It's a risky business to leave on your holidays without giving your car a thorough check. How many vacations have been ruined by a weak set of spark plugs or faulty fuel lines?

Make sure your car is every bit as "vacation-ready" as you are. Ask your Shell dealer for a pre-vacation check-up—it's part of the fun of "getting away from it all."

Here is a brief list of vital points you want to have inspected;

1. Shell lubrication of all moving parts to give your car smoothness and performance.
2. Fuel system. Check filter, tighten unions and adjust carburetor.

3. Spark plugs. Inspect, clean and adjust or replace.
4. Battery. Test. Recharge or replace, if necessary.
5. Ignition system. Check points and condenser, coil and wiring.
6. Tires. Check for wear, rotate and inflate to correct pressure.
7. Brakes. Check linings for wear and adjust.
8. Muffler. Check for leaks. Check tailpipe.
9. Lights. Check all bulbs and lenses, focus headlights. And before you go, fill your tank with today's Super Shell, the gasoline with nine ingredients for top performance.

Quadros Back In U.S. Camp?

By MAX HARBELSON
RIO DE JANEIRO (AP).—Adlai Stevenson winds up his Brazilian visit today apparently satisfied the United States will be able to work closely with President Janio Quadros.

Because Quadros has been following an independent line since he took office in January, his attitude was a particular concern of Stevenson's on his Latin American tour as special envoy of President Kennedy. Details of Quadros' two hour and 15-minute talk with Stevenson Sunday at Sao Paulo were not disclosed, but it was obvious they got on well together.

They were jovial after the meeting and indicated it had been satisfactory.

Stevenson said he was comforted by the extent of agreement and that he looked forward to an era of greater cooperation between the two countries.

EMBRACED ADLAI

Quadros embraced Stevenson warmly at the start of their talks and later asserted relations between their countries are good.

It has been known for some time that Quadros was unhappy about the United States' Cuban policy. In effect, he has been urging hands off since the ill-fated April invasion of the island.

Stevenson, now nearing the halfway mark of his 18-day Latin American tour, has also been finding other countries cool toward further action against the regime of Cuban Prime Minister Fidel Castro. On the other main problem Stevenson has been discussing with South American leaders—Kennedy's plans for economic improvement—Stevenson indicated Quadros agreed this was the best way to defend the hemisphere against extremists.

HUNTED FOR 70 YEARS

Claim Staked to Legendary Gold Mine

NEW WESTMINSTER, B.C. (CP).—A newspaper man with a flair for historical research says he believes he has found the legendary Lost Creek gold mine which men have sought for 70 years.

Elmer McLellan, city editor of The British Columbian, wrote about the fabulous lode Saturday in his paper, then made a weekend visit to the spot, staking a claim.

Legend says 23 men have died searching for it and its $100,000,000 potential.

McLellan found no gold on earlier visits but during the weekend he staked claim to 750,000 square feet of land covering a tunnel and underground cavern which he believes to be the fabled mine.

His next move will be to have a mining expert examine his find and have rock samples from the area assayed.

STUDIES LEGEND

McLellan, who did considerable research into the legend, said he was told of the site by Wally Lund, a carpenter, fisherman, former trapper and prospector, who claimed he had a dream which revealed the location to him.

McLellan's belief is that the mine is on Sheridan Hill near the Alouette River, a 30-minute drive from downtown New Westminster.

Men have searched for the mine since an Indian named Slumach turned up here in 1890 loaded with gold.

HANGED FOR MURDER

Slumach was hanged for murder Jan. 16, 1891 and his secret died with him.

McLellan said his study shows Slumach had murdered an Indian named Louis Bee. The murder was committed within two miles of the site of Sheridan Hill and McLellan said Bee's nearness to the site led him to his violent death.

McLellan found an underground cavern. A tunnel led away from the 30-foot-deep cavern and loose rock and two cedar poles were on the bottom.

The lanky newspaper man said Lund told him he discovered the cavern in a narrow gorge about two years ago. He visited the site the next spring, but could not enter alone.

From a study of the legend in newspaper files the men came up with this story of the Slumach legend.

McLellan said the cavern could not be worked alone.

"The old Indian had had help in extracting the gold. No one man could go down and up on his own. He would have to lower someone else down and pull him up with the gold. And the wily old Indian had chosen women for this task as they were nice and light and more easily murdered. For once having seen such a rich cache no one could be expected to keep the secret, no one except the owner."

'Yes' Vote Indicated By City IWA

Victoria Local of the IWA is expected to vote in favor of a recommended contract settlement with coast lumber operators.

Approval was indicated at a meeting last week, attended by executive members, shop stewards and general membership.

Meanwhile, with all other western district locals of the International Woodworkers of America, the 1,200-member Local 1-118 is taking a general ballot.

Voting deadline is June 17, when ballots will be tabulated in Vancouver.

FRINGE BENEFITS

It is expected the general union membership will accept the recommendation that last year's working agreement be continued, with certain fringe benefits and a small wage adjustment for engineers and firemen.

The Victoria local heard a report on negotiations and a policy committee recommendation at the meeting.

Local president John McKenzie commented later:

"I place myself, as a member of policy and negotiating committees, four-square behind the majority recommendation."

Joe Morris, B.C. district president of the IWA, has urged the general membership to support the settlement recommendation, but has been met with minority opposition in Duncan and Vancouver locals of the union.

New 'Axis' In World Politics

MONTREAL (CP) — The vast majority of the new states of Asia and Africa "are passionately opposed to the cold war and determined not to become involved in it," Frederick Boland, president of the United Nations General Assembly, said here Saturday.

Mr. Boland, speaking at the Conference of Learned Societies, said the United Nations now operates on two axes.

"One, of course, is the East-West axis," he said. "The other might loosely be called the North-South axis, with the advanced industrial states of Europe and North America on one end and the newly independent, underdeveloped states of Asia and Africa on the other."

"We in the West still tend to think of the world situation primarily in terms of the East-West struggle and the problems connected with it, such as Berlin, German reunification and the cessation of nuclear tests."

To Asian and African states, however, the main problems are colonialism, racial discrimination and economic underdevelopment, "matters of immediate and direct concern to them."

On these issues they tended to close ranks and vote as a bloc. A Western country voting against them on any of these issues "inevitably damages its image in the eyes even of the more moderate and Western-minded members of the group."

Coast Guardsman Lost When Raft Capsizes

SEATTLE (AP) — A raft carrying three Coast Guardsmen capsized in the Elwha River Saturday. One man is missing and presumed drowned, Coast Guard headquarters here reported. The men were from the service's air station at Port Angeles. The Elwha, flows into the Strait of Juan de Fuca near Port Angeles.

ESTATE of $1,257,179 was left by James J. McCann, late Liberal national revenue minister. Bank stock formed bulk of the fortune. Dr. McCann's widow is principal beneficiary.

TEACHER LOOKS BACK ON 39 YEARS

'Grade 1 Makes or Mars a Child'

By JUDY RICHARDSON
"Do you remember?" will be the phrase most heard in the Willows school auditorium on Thursday at 8 p.m.

The centre of all these memories will be Mrs. Winnifred Pattison, retiring this year after 39 years as a Grade 1 teacher at Willows.

For the occasion the Willows Parent-Teacher Association has invited all Mrs. Pattison's former pupils, from as far back as 1922, to attend the reception.

In an interview, Mrs. Pattison said of her Grade 1 pupils:

"You have to share everything with them—their new clothes, the new brother, their games."

Since 1922 Mrs. Pattison (formerly Miss Cruikshank) has been mother, teacher, playmate and adviser to countless numbers of six year olds awed by their first glimpse of school life.

Actually Mrs. Pattison thinks that children today are more mature and independent. It is easier for her to teach the children to teach themselves because of their awareness of their surroundings and their natural curiosity.

The word "delinquent" goes down badly with Mrs. Pattison. She sees very few problem children — all of them with the same problem — because they are undisciplined they are unhappy.

Grade 1, says Mrs. Pattison, can make or mar a child. It takes patience and confidence to administer discipline without upsetting the sensitive six-year-old. If possible, day must start happy and end happy. In her career at Willows no matter what little troubles there are during the day, Mrs. Pattison must have had a great many happy endings. School for she says that she would do it all over again if she had the chance.

BILL VEECK BOWS OUT, SELLS CHISOX HOLDINGS

CHICAGO (AP)—Ailing Bill Veeck bowed out of baseball and Chicago White Sox ownership was narrowed to two men Saturday as Arthur C. Allyn bought out his majority control partners, Veeck and Hank Greenberg, for an estimated $2,500,000.

At a surprise news conference, Allyn, 48, a director of numerous corporations, said:

1. Veeck, convalescent Sox president, had resigned from the club after selling his 30 per cent holdings in the majority group.
2. Vice-President Greenberg sold his 40 per cent, but will remain as the salaried general manager and executive vice-president, "in complete charge of the club."
3. Allyn has made no overtures to buy out Chuck Comiskey, 46 per cent owner, now the only other stockholder with Allyn.

It was guessed that the cash purchase which Allyn said he completed Thursday night would give Greenberg $1,400,000 and Veeck $1,100,000.

Wins Feature

VANCOUVER (CP)—More than 8,000 racing fans braved rainy weather to watch Max Inkuek romp home to a one-length win in the $2,500 Lansdowne Handicap at Exhibition Park here Saturday.

The four-year-old Irish-bred son of Champosaire, owned by Puritan Stables and ridden by Tino Dominguez, was an 11-1 long shot. Uncut Diamond ran second and Brian Hickey third.

When a baseball team is hot, even a near-disaster can turn out to be a blessing in disguise. Cleveland Indians are a prime example.

In the fifth inning of their first game with Kansas City Athletics Sunday, trailing 3-2, the Indians suffered what was thought to be a serious loss when center-fielder Jimmy Piersall, the American League's leading hitter, injured his heel and had to be helped off the field.

A much-travelled outfielder, Chuck Essegian, was substituted, Essegian, who couldn't stick with five other big league clubs, hit two home runs in the first game, driving in five runs to give the Indians a 3-3 triumph. The Golden Greek didn't stop there. His double in the ninth inning drove in Cleveland's last run in a 4-3 second-game victory.

The triumph increased the Indians' first-place margin to one and one-half games over Detroit Tigers, held to a split by Washington Senators. The Tigers had to play 11 innings to win the second game 7-6 after the Senators won the opener 7-4.

YANKS TAKE TWO

New York Yankees climbed to within half a game of the Tigers, beating Los Angeles Angels 2-1 and 5-1. Baltimore Orioles turned back Chicago 8-2 but the White Sox gained a split with a 7-1 second-game victory. Minnesota Twins also earned a split, defeating Boston 10-5 after the Red Sox won the opener 8-2.

In Saturday games the Tigers shut out the Indians 2-0, and the Senators edged the White Sox 4-3 in 15 innings, the Angels beat the Red Sox 10-5.

WIN STREAK AT FIVE

Enemy Error Opened Gates for Vicettes

The ability to capitalize on enemy errors is the mark of a winning ball club.

Victoria Vicettes fit the description nicely. They waited their chance Sunday at Central Park. When it came in the seventh inning—Louise Mason trundled in from third base with the run that gave Vicettes a 5-4 win over Port Angeles. The latter committed only one error to Vicettes' three, but that miscue—a passed ball by catcher Kay

FOUR-AND-TWENTY SULK

INGLEWOOD, Calif. (AP)—Four-and-Twenty is going back to school because he's acting like a spoiled brat.

The three-year-old colt, owned by Alberta Ranches, entered the $32,700 Argonaut Stakes as a prohibitive favorite Saturday and ended up last in a class of seven.

"He just plain sulked," said veteran jockey Johnny Longden.

It seems that Four-and-Twenty can't stand running on the inside, as he was forced to do in the Argonaut. This came as a shock to most of the patrons at the race track, who had backed Four-and-Twenty down to odds of 1 to 2.

Mr. America, Ballpoint and Sonofagun finished ahead of the pack in that order.

Olden Times, who ranked just behind Four-and-Twenty going into the contest, was a well-beaten fifth. His jockey, Willie Shoemaker, was more charitable than Longden.

"We got pushed around pretty good between horses all the way and this hurt us considerably," Shoemaker said. "Then he just ran out of gas when he needed to go."

Short Stretch Rugged For Everyone But Kerr

Laurie Overhauls McColl To Win Fifth City Crown

A green thumb has never been his greatest claim to fame, so you can't blame Bill McColl if he refuses to be meticulous about the sod around his homestead. Especially on days before important golf matches.

His zealous use of clippers while trimming his lawn Saturday snipped the 1961 City Amateur championship from McColl's grasp Sunday.

The honors went to Laurie Kerr, the smooth-swinging 31-year-old Royal Colwood ace who charged down the final stretch to make up a four-stroke deficit and claim his fifth city title in seven years.

Kerr continued his monopoly by coming in with a one-over-par 70 at Victoria Golf Club Sunday. The 70, along with rounds of 72 and 69 last week, gave him a 54-hole total of 211—four over par for the route and exactly the same number of blows he took in winning the event last year.

Gorge Vale's Bill Wakeham, also charging down the stretch, finished second—72-69-71—212—while McColl, who blew to a 76 Sunday, took third place with a 213 aggregate.

Double-Bogey Fives Did Damage

Wakeham met his Waterloo on the 7th. He hooked his tee shot onto the beach, and took a two-stroke penalty when the ball was not found. He settled for a double bogey five, took a par on the eighth and then took a bogey four on the ninth to finish two over par.

McColl parried the very difficult 7th but failed on the eighth—Oak Bay's shortest hole. His tee shot landed into the trap in a difficult spot. He

The unbeaten Incogs chalked up their sixth successive triumph Sunday, trimming second-place Oak Bay by eight wickets to stretch their league lead to 15 points.

With Rod Wilson capturing five Oak Bay wickets for 35 runs, Incogs dismissed their rivals for 54 runs and then ran up 65 for two wickets.

Veteran Reg Wenman wielded the most effective bat for Incogs, collecting 33 runs, not out. Alan Wright batted up 24 for Oak Bay.

In Sunday's other match,

Five C's also ran up an eight-wicket victory, downing Cowichan at Duncan.

Malcolm Shanks took five wickets for the meagre total of 13 runs as the 53. Kem Greenwood batted for 23 runs.

Vics Running Out of Smiles

Vancouver 15, Victoria 5
By ERNIE FEDORUK

It's easy to find alibis after losing a close one, but beatings are best forgotten.

Even the relatives were at a loss for words after Victoria's Inter-City Lacrosse League team suffered through a 15-5 lacing at the hands of second-place Vancouver Saturday, so the nicest thing that could be said about the Vics today is that they are showing their greatest improvement in after-game deportment.

After the first few games of the season, it was hard to figure you were in the losers' dressing room. Smiles and a cheery atmosphere prevailed and, somebody would happily announce that "we'll get 'em next time."

"Now the Vics are running out of smiles and 'next times.' The setbacks are harder to take, and that's how coach Arnold Ferguson wanted it at the start of the season.

If their dressing-room attitude is improving, Vics' play on the floor isn't. It reached a low ebb at Memorial Arena Saturday.

The Vancouverians came a-visting without such stalwarts as Alex Mackay, Bill Barbour, John Cervi and John Dorfingler, but still wasted little time in serving notice as to which team was going to take charge.

That Vancouver stepped off the floor with a 2-1 lead at the end of the first quarter was a tribute to the work of Victoria goalie Gordie Johnston. After that, there was never any doubt.

Lacking hustle, missing checks and neglecting to fight for loose balls, the Vics never threatened. They scored only two goals in three and a half quarters, and never really displayed their idea of a good defence until the dying minutes. It was 8-2 at the half and 11-2 after three quarters.

Only once or twice did the Vics pull off anything that resembled a well-planned play. Individualism prevailed, and the worse it got, the worse they looked.

Only Al Davies, who scored three Victoria goals on individual sorties, had any idea of where the Vancouver net was, and only Tom Collett and Reg Foster showed any zest and ability in checking.

Still winless after 11 games, the Vics try again Wednesday when they entertain league-leading New Westminster at the Arena.

COOPER SECOND ... AGAIN

It might be Frank Cooper's lot to be a bridesmaid in Vancouver Island skeet events.

The New Westminster shot finished in the runner-up spot for the second straight year as Victoria veteran Jack Roach claimed the 1961 Island skeet title Sunday.

Roach, a past winner and always a threat, captured high gun honors by blasting 147 out of a possible 150 birds at Victoria Gun Club grounds. Hitting 97x100 in the all-gauge event, Roach, captured the overall crown when he scored a perfect 50 in the 20-gauge event.

Cooper, class "A" all-gauge winner with 98x100, finished a shot behind Roach in the overall.

Old Arch Casts Gaze On European Fields

NEW YORK (AP) — Old Archie Moore, co-owner of the world light-heavyweight title, humorist, philosopher and actor, will take his varied act to Europe this summer for a series of bouts that may include a climax, $1,000,000 fight with Ingemar Johansson.

The Methusalem of the ring and his agent, Jack (Doc) Kearns, outlined Archie's plans following the champion's lopsided decision victory over inept Giulio Rinaldi at Madison Square Garden Saturday night.

"Doc and I are going to tour the Scandinavian countries, fighting a few exhibitions, and maybe a couple of 10-round fights," said Archie. "Then we'll see what we can stir up."

Kearns said he plans three or four fights for the 44-plus Moore, leading up to a title defence against Lennart Risberg — if the young Swede gets by Willie Pastrano of Miami Beach in Stockholm, July 2 — and then Johansson, the former world heavyweight champion.

"The fellow we'd like to get is Johansson. We could draw $1,000,000 with him in Europe. I guess he is waiting to see how his tax problems with Uncle Sam come out before he makes a definite move."

"If we get past Johansson, we might wind up with Floyd Patterson again," Moore was knocked out by Patterson in 1936 for the vacant heavy-weight title.

Archie, in his first defence of the 175-pound crown in 22 months, had one streak broken. He had flattened the last six of his title opponents.

Going the distance was the only feat to Rinaldi's credit. The 26-year-old Italian looked like a rank amateur against a sub-par Moore. After gaining the lead through the first four rounds against the slow-starting champion, the young husky from Anzio showed nothing but gameness and a post-fight appetite.

Jokers Find Range In Second Session

Seven goals in 30 minutes, fired two each for Nanaimo. Singles came from Joe Manzanari, Al Crawley and Ken Baustis.

Shots on goal were about even. Jokers' Chummy Crabbe stopped 19. Nanaimo's Gerry Shires blocked 20.

The teams play a return game Tuesday at Nanaimo.

An added attraction to the closely-fought battle was a spot of fistfights involving Jokers' Dave Collett and Nanaimo's Larry Sherry. They each drew five minutes, representing the bulk of penalties (nine minutes for Jokers, 12 for Nanaimo).

Bob Jones and Al Tarbet with two goals, Brian Gray, Whitey Wakelyn, Collett and Al Hayton with one each accounted for Jokers' scoring. Mike Good and Ron Hill

CHINOOKS AID PALSY CLINIC

The Chinook Club is organizing a dance for the benefit of the Cerebral Palsy Clinic in the Club-Tango, Oak Bay Avenue, on Friday.

Tickets can be obtained from the clinic at $2.50 per couple.

Moore chopped up his wild-swinging, bewildered rival with an assortment of blows. At the finish Giulio was bleeding from cuts around both eyes and from a possibly fractured nose.

There were no knockdowns. "He should go back to school and learn the techniques of fighting," said Archie. "He is strong but has no technique."

Archie received $100,000 and Rinaldi $25,000.

In the scoring, the three officials had it this way: Referee Ruby Goldstein, 11-3-1 in rounds, judge Artie Aldala 11-4 and judge Tony Castellano 9-5-1.

Bonus-Passing Scouts Might Do Well to Look

This is the time of year when baseball scouts lurk around halls of learning and pass out fat cheques to graduating high school boys who rate as good major league prospects.

The scouts might do well by taking a good look at George Hemming.

The stylish, 18-year-old flinger is cutting quite a swath through Victoria Connie Mack League circles.

In seven starts, all Hemming has managed to accomplish is to win seven games for Optimists while striking out 114 batters. That's an average of better than 16 game... a record that takes on added significance when one considers the fact that the majority of games are only seven-inning affairs.

Hemming stayed with his average Sunday, striking out 17 and allowing only one hit as Optimists defeated Burnies 2-1. Cliff Rutledge's double in the third inning was the only blow off the unbeaten Hemming.

STILL WIN TWO
Despite Hemming's heroics, Burnies still managed to come out on top Sunday. They needed only one inning to break a 5-5 tie of a game called on May 11 and scored a second victory by blanking Optimists 5-0 in the second half of Sunday's regularly-scheduled twin bill.

Socreds swept a pair from Duncan, winning the first 6-5 on John Fitterer's three-run homer in the sixth, and the second, 10-6. At Lake Cowichan, the hosts salvaged a split by winning the second 8-7 after Young Liberals took the first 3-2.

Stars Tripped By Birmingham

VANCOUVER — Birmingham City headed east for the tag end of its Canadian soccer tour today after proving a point.

Criticized by reporters as a mediocre club, the first division English League club turned in a polished display Saturday night to whip the B.C. All-Stars 5-2.

Birmingham opened scoring at the 10-minute mark when Orritt took a pass from Mike Hellawell on the left side and boomed it into the right corner.

Australian Batsmen Pile Up Runs Handily

BIRMINGHAM, England (Reuters) — Piling up runs remorselessly, Australia Saturday ran its first innings score to 516 for nine declared—a 321-on the third day of the cricket test against England.

Between falls of rain which held up play several times, the Australian batsman exposed the thinness of England's bowling resources.

HIGHEST SCORE The total was Australia's highest test score in England since the Leeds Test in 1934.

England, dismissed for 195 in its first innings, was five for no wicket in its second when rain brought an early close.

Bobby Simpson scored 76 in 210 minutes off the England attack, hitting nine fours. Ken Mackay made 64 in 132 minutes with 10 boundaries, and Richie Benaud got 36 not out.

A crowd of 23,000 saw the English bowlers completely dominated. Brian Statham, who did not have much luck, conceded 147 runs for his three wickets, and his fellow pace bowler, Freddie Truman, had two wickets for 138 runs.

LONDON (Reuters)—Saturday's close-of-play cricket scores: Yorkshire 87 for 2; vs. Glamorgan. Match rained out.

Somerset 207; Middlesex 86 for 4; Surrey 339; Lancashire 31 for one wicket.

Gloucestershire 156; Hampshire 12 for no wicket.

Nottinghamshire 152; Leicestershire 153 for 4.

NEGRO STARS MAY BE SUSPENDED

Jump King Had Doubts

HOUSTON, Tex. (AP)—The director of the organization that led 20 Negro athletes out of the track meet of champions said he was never able to convince fully high jumper John Thomas he was doing the right thing.

"We never did convince Thomas," Edgeway Stearnes, director of the Progressive Youth Association, said Sunday.

The stars may have jeopardized their eligibility in the Amateur Athletic Union.

The Negroes, including world record breakers Thomas and Ralph Boston, refused to compete in the track meet Friday because they said seating in the stands was segregated.

Johnny Morris, director of the meet, said most of the Negroes attended a pre-meet ban-net four hours before the finals started and gave no indication then they would withdraw.

"If the athletes received expenses to go to Houston for the meet and withdrew without just cause they are subject to suspension," said Kellum Johnson, past president of the AAU.

Morris said the Negroes had taken expense money for the trip to Houston and indicated he may try to get the money back.

The paid gate for the meet was 5,200. The crowd was white except for a few Negro youngsters.

The Negro withdrawals included some of the best track men in the U.S., including Hayes Jones, Stone Johnson, Anthony Watson, Boston and Thomas, all members of the 1960 U.S. Olympic team.

Adolph Plummer, a Negro sprinter from the University of New Mexico, said the Negroes were threatened with violence if they crossed a picket line organized by the Anti-Segregation Progressive Youth Association of Houston.

A FAMILY AFFAIR and idb

The central figures in this business story are three brothers who wanted to join forces to start their own manufacturing enterprise. All had for several years had good jobs with other employers—in production, sales and administration respectively—and they felt their abilities would fit together well to provide balanced management for a new family venture.

The combined financial resources of the brothers fell short of being enough to pay for the production equipment which would be needed, as well as to provide working capital. They soon found that term financing of the type they needed was hard to arrange—especially for a brand new business which had yet to prove itself.

When the principals brought their problem to Industrial Development Bank, they were able to show a well-thought-out plan for setting up production in a new plant. Their sales objective was based on a thorough survey of the market for their product, which was being partly supplied by imports from abroad; and with modern equipment the brothers were sure they could produce and sell at competitive prices.

Discussion with IDB officers revealed some aspects of the project which could be changed to advantage and, when plans were settled, the Bank agreed to assist the new company to finance the cost of the required equipment. As expected, the first few months' operation showed losses, but initial operating problems were soon overcome, the company was "in the black" by the end of the first year and subsequently earned good profits... good enough, in fact, to repay the IDB loan nearly two years ahead of time.

The initiative and resourcefulness shown by the brothers in setting up this family business and operating it successfully, together with the timely term financing supplied by IDB, resulted in the establishment of another flourishing enterprise providing employment to Canada's expanding labour force.

The Industrial Development Bank was established in 1944 to provide financial assistance to small and medium-sized enterprises* unable to obtain satisfactory term financing through other channels. For further information, and a descriptive booklet, you are invited to write or visit the nearest IDB office or consult your auditor, lawyer or chartered banker.

P.S.—We have made a colour movie based on the case of another company assisted by IDB financing. If an organization or group in your community would like to have it shown, the nearest IDB office will be glad to make the arrangements.

LOCAL BRIEFS

Regular meeting of Victoria Numismatic Society will be held tonight at 8 in the lower room of Victoria Art Gallery, Moss Street.

City street repairmen were busy at two nearby points on Hillside Friday, causing passers-by to wonder why one group was ripping up concrete blocking that had been laid by the second group.

The reason was that a water main had sprung a leak close to Quadra Street soon after the concrete had been installed.

The city plans to blacktop the whole area soon.

Regular meeting of Esquimalt council will be held in the Municipal Hall, Esquimalt Road, tonight at 7.30.

Cloverdale PTA will meet for the last time during the present school term in the school on Monday at 8 p.m.

Bernard Gillie, principal of S. J. Willis Junior High School, will be guest speaker and will install officers for the coming year.

Condition of Robert Milliken, local Teamsters' Union business agent stricken with a heart attack last month, is improved.

He is resting at home.

Mr. Milliken, who had acted as agent for the union for 10 years, went to hospital May 4 and is expected to be several months convalescing.

Appointment of James Penock as acting business agent has been ratified by the union membership in Victoria, Port Alberni and Nanaimo.

Election of new officers will take place at a meeting of the Conservation Council to be held in the Victoria Art Gallery, 1040 Moss Street, Tuesday at 8.15 p.m.

Nominations will be invited for president, vice-president, secretary-treasurer, recording secretary and two executive members.

The Conservation Council was founded in April 1960 to co-ordinate the efforts of individuals and organizations interested in conservation of natural assets in parks and green belts.

Canada's Show At Century 21 To Be 'Dramatic'

Canada's exhibit in the Century 21 Exposition next year will be "dramatic and exciting scientific entertainment," Glen Bannerman, director of the federal government's exhibition commission, said recently.

He said the National Research Council is contributing exhibit concepts and the result will be a "fascinating scientific experience for visitors—with a strong accent on audience participation."

Mr. Bannerman, who was visiting the 1962 World's Fair headquarters, said Canadians will start arriving in Seattle by the first of the year to prepare and staff the 11,900-square-foot exhibit.

Staff will eventually total more than 20 with additional representatives co-ordinating the Canadian performing arts. Twelve will be from the University of British Columbia.

OVER 120 of the top Times carrier salesmen load up their plates at a banquet at the Golden Slipper Friday night in honor of their good work. Attendance was based on a seven-week sales program, and top salesmen were awarded special prizes such as camping gear. INCO DEVELOPS WORLD MARKETS FOR NICKEL

IN SWEDEN

ATOMIC FUEL FOR RESIDENTIAL HEATING

Sweden's first industrial reactor, now under construction near Stockholm, is designed to produce both heat and power. It will feed an added 10,000 kilowatt hours of electricity into Stockholm's power network and produce enough heat to supply 12,000 suites in modern apartment blocks in the suburban city of Farsta. Swedish scientists predict that heating communities with nuclear energy will be economically feasible in their country within ten years.

Nuclear power builds world markets for nickel

Nickel and nickel alloys have properties that are essential to the production of atomic power. Special alloys developed through Inco research are used in nuclear power plants to withstand extreme pressures, corrosion and intense heat in pipe lines, pumps, condensers, heat exchangers and fuel tanks.

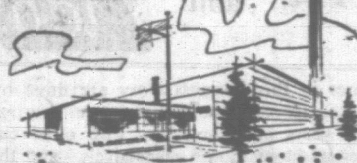

In the search for new and better products containing nickel, Inco has always played an active role... developing alloys to fulfill special requirements in industry and the home...finding new ways to use existing alloys.

Canada is the world's largest producer of nickel. And Inco, through sales, research and market development operations, maintains a continuing program for the expansion of international markets for Inco nickel.

More Inco nickel than ever before will be exported to Inco's expanding world markets... helping to build trade balances... stimulate Canada's future economic growth and create more jobs for Canadians.

NEWS OF ROYAL BABY IRES BELGIAN LEFTISTS

BRUSSELS (Reuters) — Belgium's Socialist party chiefs today will discuss the controversy caused by the Pope's disclosure that Queen Fabiola is expecting a baby.

Newspapers supporting the Socialists — the country's second strongest party — have launched an outright attack on the royal palace, charging the event should have been announced first to the Belgian people.

Even some Roman Catholic newspapers have questioned the wisdom of the Pope's statement, made to a group of Belgian reporters covering the visit to the Vatican last week by King Baudouin and Fabiola.

Belgium's Social Christian-Catholic premier, Theo Lefevre, confirmed the queen's pregnancy on returning to Brussels with the royal couple Saturday.

'INTENSIFIED IN BEAUTY'

Warm Applause For City Singer

By AUDREY JOHNSON

A charming personality and a lovely voice that has become a well-disciplined and sensitive instrument was revealed Saturday afternoon by Victoria scholar-ship student and artist graduate of the Royal Conservatory of Music, Marlene Vance.

The event, a scholarship tea arranged by Victoria Musical Art Society at Oak Bay Beach Hotel, featured Miss Vance in a half-hour program in which she was well partnered by Richard Proudman at the piano.

During her two years of study in Toronto — which culminated this spring when she won her artist's diploma with first class honors — Miss Vance's voice has developed in power and intensified in beauty, particularly in the mezzo range.

SMOOTH TEXTURE

While classified as a lyric soprano, this voice was more appealing in its mezzo area where there is a warmth and smooth, fine texture.

Top notes were less "floating" and easy in production with, consequently, some falling off in quality.

Miss Vance is in admirable control of her breathing, phrases expertly and sings with fair facility in French, Italian and German. The latter language, and indeed her whole approach, made the three lieder selections something rather special.

FINE DEFINITION

The Brahms and two Richard Strauss numbers were entered upon in each case with a fine definition of mood and an indication of the qualities of heart, intellect and imagination so essential to performing in this genre.

Despite difficulties with the piano mechanism, Mr. Proudman provided a most musically instrumental part in these voice-piano duos.

From opera, Miss Vance presented Mozart's "Dove sono," and an aria from Bolto's "Mefistofele." The latter, particularly, was effectively dramatic and technically approached real brilliance with excellent development of climax.

Of her English numbers, "Snow" (Gurney) was charming and sung with delicate feeling and poetic insight.

Miss Vance will shortly return to Toronto where she will take part in the Canadian Opera season.

Choristers Win Warm Response

By PETER MATTHEWS

A choral program happily in tune with the early summer evening was presented Saturday by Victoria Choral Society under the baton of Stanley Hoban.

Built around British music of several periods, it won a warm response from the fair-sized audience at Oak Bay Junior High School, from the moment of its excellently sung and lively opening number, "Come, Let's Be Merry."

Within the limits set by the program, the choir ranged extensively and provided some delightful contrasts of style, from Elizabethan glee and church chorale, to female ensemble and folk singing, with changes from accompanied, to 'a capella' work.

STEADY GROWTH

This concert was strong evidence that the choral society under Mr. Hoban, is making fine and steady growth. One notable feature is the excellence of diction. This was a constant delight throughout the evening.

The singing generally is much more flexible now and there is a more sensitive and wider palette of tonal color.

Still, the mezzo voice singing — except in the quietly beautiful "Shenandoah," which was superbly done — still leaves something to be desired.

There is often a weakness of vocalization in pianissimo passages that suggests that the choir has not fully grasped the ideal of "softness with strength."

STODGY

Because of this, Stevens' "Cloud-capped Towers" became a bit stodgy. Possibly they are not as technically comfortable in the slower tempo when it is combined with muted tone.

Among the evening's finest moments were "Salamalekum," in which the conductor became soloist. Mr. Hoban sang with fine breadth, power and vitality. Interesting and well controlled contrasts in volume marked "Evening Pastoral," in which the choir was thoroughly at home.

CAME-OFF WELL

Dramatic effect in Stanford's "Bluebird" came off particularly well. Also outstandingly successful was the Scottish "Ioana Boat Song" and Deems Taylor's arrangement of the Czech folk song, "Waters Ripple and Flow," in which two choir members, Patricia Wicks and William Broadhead, were soloists.

The latter number and "Shenandoah" particularly, were enhanced by a lovely accompaniment, finely executed by pianist Richard Proudman. Stanford's "Songs of the Fleet," which was to have featured baritone John Dunbar, was cancelled owing to Mr. Dunbar's illness. In its place, guest artist Mary Munn added a Mozart Sonata to her part of the program.

Miss Munn is especially happy in the rather delicate, "cameo" style of composition. This was best demonstrated in the Chopin Barcarolle, in Debussy's atmospheric "Clair de lune," and in an elegant allegro movement of the Mozart opus.

'Double Heart' Makes Her Tick

By MONTE ROBERTS

Sea-minded Victoria citizens this week are taking advantage of the U.S. Navy's invitation to inspect a warship whose peacetime role is warning.

USS Scanner, berthed at Esquimalt Harbor, is one of the ocean-stationed extensions of the North American warning lines — the DEW line in the Arctic, and the Mid-Canada and Pinetree lines in Canada.

Scanner will be leaving Friday for her station, about 400 miles off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Her's is the northernmost post of five units of Radar

Picket Squadron One, operating out of San Francisco.

Built into her Liberty-type cargo hull is a complex of highly sensitive, long range radar gear operating off three main, continuously revolving scopes.

The watch-and-warning complex has a double "heart," the combat information centre, where radar information is correlated and all sea or air objects plotted, and the communications centre, in direct and instant contact with NORAD shore stations by teletype, radio and telephone.

Even these two nerve centres are on public view, although highly restricted equipment has been "secured" during the stay in port.

The public will be welcomed aboard again from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday.

As befits a ship which spends 67 per cent of her time on monotonous sea duty, liveability is of the best, including a big hobby shop, motion picture theatre, and a crew's lounge which would be the envy of a destroyer officer.

Saturday and Sunday, about 500 visitors went aboard, and Scanner's captain, Cmdr. Burton A. Shaw, says he hopes to entertain hundreds more.

Communications centre is only minutes away from shore.

Size of giant Scanner 'eye' dwarfs sailor.

Department Store, Marina Oak Bay Investment Lures

A block-size department store and a first-class marina development are suggested for Oak Bay in a special B.C. government survey of investment opportunities across the province.

The survey, released today by the trade department, covers 10 B.C. regions, and will be available for anyone interested in establishing new commercial or business ventures.

It was compiled from answers to a questionnaire submitted to chambers of commerce and boards of trade.

The Oak Bay Board of Trade suggested a land assembly program to develop the department block.

It also proposed the marina at the site of the Oak Bay breakwater built by the federal government last year.

The land in the area is owned by the municipality and present leases expire in June, 1962, says the trade department's report.

The board of trade suggested a restaurant be included in the marina plans. It said that interested parties should write to Oak Bay council, which will be considering lease renewals probably this month.

The big need throughout B.C., according to the overall survey, is for hotels and motels to boost the tourist industry. Almost every community queried suggested such developments.

Opportunities for motels, in particular, exist in such Vancouver Island areas as Central Saanich, Chemainus, Galiano Island, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Parksville, Port Alberni, Sayward.

BREWERY

Courtenay wants a brewery, and a chair lift to skiing areas on Forbidden Plateau.

Nanaimo Chamber of Commerce suggests a fish fertilizer plant and more warehousing development.

Central Saanich issues a plea for subdivision housing, and motels along the highway to the government's Swartz Bay ferry terminal.

Port Alberni seeks more recreational development along the west coast road to Tofino.

Salt Spring Island Chamber of Commerce says the island could become "a de luxe resort area."

Sidney has an opportunity for a "first class golf and country club."

The Okanagan, lower mainland, Kamloops, Peace River, Kootenay, central and north-west regions all need motels and tourist facilities.

"The purpose of the survey is to provide investment suggestions in response to numerous inquiries received by the department," said Trade Minister Bonner.

The navy auxiliary vessel MV Laymore, engaged in seismicographic work for the Pacific Naval Laboratory, dropped the charges recently and was unable to explode them due to a break in the cable connected with the firing mechanism.

Spokesmen emphasized that there is absolutely no danger to local craft.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of keeping a common gaming house at 561 Fisgard, Lee Youn was remanded to June 19 for trial when he appeared in city police court today.

A total of 18 Chinese also appeared, all charged with being found in the same house at 561 Fisgard, and all were remanded to June 20 for plea.

More people should visit the Maritime Museum, is the opinion expressed by members of the B.C. Historical Association, Victoria Branch, after they had done just that on Saturday.

About 100 members took part in the outing, which included a trip to St. Paul's Naval and Garrison Church. The Ladies' Guild of the church served tea.

THIRD PLACE FOR SAANICH CANOE RACERS

An 11-man canoe from Saanich placed third out of 18 entries in racing Saturday at the 16th annual Lummi "stompin'" or water carnival, at Bellingham.

Skipper Moses Sam Piloted John Dean and his Tsartlip crew from West Saanich into third spot behind Vancouver's North Burrard, and the defending Chelalis crew from Chilliwack.

On Sunday Mermald of Galiano won a photo finish over the Chelalis crew, with Vancouver third. Defeat of the Galiano paddlers Saturday marked their only loss in seven starts this year.

Design Change 'Possible' For Fountain

Works Minister W. N. Chant said today suggestions for changing the design of the controversial fountain planned at the Legislative Buildings will be considered, but there is little chance the entire project will be killed.

Since the $45,000 plan was announced last week there has been a storm of public argument about its merits — artistic and practical.

Mr. Chant said he has received numerous phone calls, and a visit from a delegation of local artists who examined a model of the design for bronze animals symbolizing B.C.'s natural history.

"There certainly has been a lot of interest in it — more than I ever dreamed," he said.

As for changing the design: "These things are always possible."

"I'll be taking it up," added the minister, "the matter will be further discussed."

As for changing the entire project: "It is government thinking that the back of the Buildings should have a fountain."

Wiring and water pipes are already installed at the location, off Superior Street.

"NOT A GIFT" Mr. Chant said the government does not regard the new fountain as a gift to the city of Victoria for its 1962 centenary.

Nor is it intended specifically to mark the centenary.

"But if people want to look upon it in that manner, there's nothing wrong in that," said Mr. Chant.

He added that he knows of no specific government offer of a centennial gift.

"I can neither promise nor deny anything will be done," he said.

Liberals Map Strategy Here In September

The B.C. Liberal Party will plan its next federal election campaign at a provincial conference in Victoria next September, it was announced from provincial headquarters today.

"We expect a federal election next fall or at the latest in the spring of 1962," Liberal organizer Ronald Fairclough told The Times.

"Main purpose of the Victoria convention will be to form a hard-fighting organization in anticipation of a swing back towards the Liberal Party."

"We feel public support of the Diefenbaker government is deteriorating fast, and the recent by-elections have shown that the majority of Canadians no longer favor his government."

Date and place of the September conference have still to be arranged.

Mr. Fairclough said all B.C. Liberal candidates, including Capt. David Groos, defeated Liberal candidate in the recent Esquimalt-Saanich by-election, are expected to attend.

It is anticipated Capt. Groos will run in the next federal election, he said.

Also attending will be the eight area vice-presidents, including Arthur Cox, vice-president for Vancouver Island.

The conference will discuss broadening of the party's financial appeal in B.C. and revision of its constitution.

Ottawa Exhibit To Feature Stamp Showings

An exhibit on loan from the Philatelic Archives in Ottawa will be the feature attraction at a stamp exhibition in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room on Friday from 1 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3.30 p.m.

Enthusiastic stamp collectors will be able to see the inverted St. Lawrence Seaway stamps, 250 years of self-government in Nova Scotia, and the drawings, die proofs and finished stamp approved by the postmaster-general to commemorate the centenary of B.C.

The Tri Club Exhibition is being held by the Greater Victoria Philatelic Society and the Victoria Junior Stamp Club.

SPCA Up in Arms Over Rat Deaths In School 'Clinic'

Dietary Experiments Horrible for Children

Classroom experiments resulting in the death of white rats came under fire today by the Victoria SPCA.

Local secretary-manager N. H. Stephens said the society began investigating the experiments after a number of parents complained that children were going home with tales of rats dying by degrees through poor diet.

The one school singled out was S. J. Willis Junior High, where the nutritional object lesson was conducted recently in Grade Nine, using four rats.

Principal Bernard Gillie said such experiments had been conducted "for years" in many schools and until now he had never heard of any parent's complaint.

FOR THREE YEARS

Mr. Gillie said science and home economics departments co-operated on the experiment at his school, and had done so for about three years.

There were deaths for the first time this year, he said.

The experiment usually covers a month in which two rats are fed a balanced diet and two receive food of poor nutritional value, such as pop, candy and cake.

For two weeks the students watch the pair eating candy decline in general condition and weight, and a daily record of weight and appearance is kept on both groups for comparison by graph.

He said he was in touch with the school board and was told the Greater Victoria School District officials were not aware of the experiments.

NO COMMENT

Deputy minister of education Dr. J. F. K. English told Mr. Stephens he had no comment to make and referred him to Dr. Taylor.

The society's B.C. executive director, T. R. Hughes, in Vancouver, told Mr. Stephens he had been assured recently by the department of education that the experiments would not continue in B.C.

DIET REVERSED

Then the diet is reversed and the improvement in the poor group is noted.

"It presents a particularly striking picture, a simple, straightforward and humane way of demonstrating the importance of diet," Mr. Gillie said.

"The lesson is most thoroughly impressed on them."

BAD EXAMPLE

"It is an extremely bad example to children to do this thing, and actually, it's against the Criminal Code," said Mr. Stephens. "We've had lots of complaints from parents about it."

"Children go home reporting, 'One of the rats is dead. The other is dying.' It's teaching children cruelty. I can't see any educational value in it at all."

"The first thing you know, they'll be experimenting with their own pets," Mr. Stephens said.

When he complained to Dr. J. A. Taylor, deputy provincial health officer, the doctor was upset that there had been a complaint.

It is a wonderful object lesson," Dr. Taylor told Mr. Stephens, and criticized the SPCA for lodging a protest.

"He said we should be going about our proper business," the SPCA manager said.

"At any rate we hope to have it opened early in the year, possibly while the legislature is still in session."

The $2,000,000 building is at the corner of Blanshard and Courtney Streets.

Fastest car on the strip at a Sunday drag race sponsored by the Quarter Mile of Victoria was a 1959 fuel-injected Corvette, driven by Cliff West of Port Alberni, which covered the quarter-mile in 14 seconds from a standing start.

It was estimated he would be exceeding 90 miles per hour at the end of the strip, located on the B.C. Cement Co. Ltd. road near Shawigan Lake.

Approval Seen On Tree-Lined Street Project

Special Meeting Set for Tuesday

Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney today said he expected a stalemate on the proposed Douglas Street beautification plan to be broken soon.

He called a special city council meeting for Tuesday afternoon after returning from a Capital Improvement District Commission session on the problem.

Ald. Mooney said council will be asked to endorse a parking ban on both sides of Douglas from the Fountain Circle north as originally requested by the CIDC. The ban had been approved only from Burnside north.

SAANICH OPPOSED

Saanich council also opposed the parking ban essential to the $180,000 project which would create tree-lined boulevards on both sides of the street from the Fountain Circle to East Saanich Road.

Ald. Mooney said Saanich opponents to the project, Coun. Joseph Casey and Coun. Leslie Passmore, attended the CIDC meeting.

"I think the whole thing will be ironed out," he said. "Everything points to the fact that we all want to beautify the Douglas Street entrance."

"I think we'll all co-operate to make this government project possible."

The suggestions were contained in a draft bylaw submitted to city health committee for study by sanitary inspector Elwood Gropp.

Mr. Gropp said he favored non-transferrable restaurant operators' certificates over a suggestion that restaurants be compelled to post health department approval certificates.

FALSE SECURITY

"Conditions can become very bad the next day after an inspection, so the approval certificates would give the public a false sense of security," he said.

WHY GROW OLD?

Bare Legs Are 'Out'— Where All Can See

According to some fashion authorities, stores, and stocking manufacturers, bare legs are definitely "out" this summer. Out where? Out in the sun and shade and water and breeze, and under some very attractive, informal lunch-eon tables.

The campaign against bare legs is abetted by the charming, sheer hosiery which now is available in such beautiful, pale colors. Few women will be able to resist them. There is no doubt that sheer hosiery glamorizes any leg, and there are times when it is necessary, such as a lunch in town or a formal dinner party, even when the day is a scorcher.

The mode for bare legs has been going strong for some time now and I think it is a wonderful idea for many summer hours. Well-tanned legs are lovely without stockings, but the woman who does not go for a good sun-tan never looks well without hose. White legs are just not attractive.

Regardless of how you feel about this, stockings or not, a leg with roughened, pebbled skin is nothing to be proud of. In order to keep your skin smooth scrub your legs daily with a bath brush or a rough cloth and soap and water. Afterwards, apply a lotion which is softening.

DEAR ABBY

Grin, But Don't Bear It!

By ABIGAIL VAN BUREN

DEAR ABBY: I am so aggravated I can hardly write this, but I am going to get it in the mail and pray it makes your column if it's the last thing I do. Today I was invited to my fourth shower for the same girl. First her mother gave a linen shower. Then her sister gave a kitchen shower. Then her first cousin gave a greenback shower requesting $3 toward the honeymoon. And now her future mother-in-law is giving a "grocery shower" to stock her cupboards.

If I go to this one it will have cost me $16. And I am not through yet because I have to buy a wedding present.

I thought relatives were not supposed to give showers. Has etiquette changed? And is this shower racket as disgusting to others as it is to me? Please print your answer in big, bold type, Abby. I am sure it will interest many others, as the season is upon us again.

BLED WHITE:

DEAR BLED: Etiquette has not changed. Some people have. It is entirely improper for a relative to give a shower. It should be a gathering of a girl's closest friends to surprise the bride-to-be with token gifts. The gifts should be within the means of each invited. The bride's mother usually determines the number of showers given. It is up to her to avoid duplications of the invited guests, since close friends are invited to the wedding, which requires another gift. In my opinion, to request "cash" is crude and nervy. There is only one way to stop this shower racket. Decline politely.

Anti-Semite Movement Spreading

NEW YORK (AP) — Anti-Semitism in the United States has made "noticeable inroads" in recent years, the American Jewish Committee said Sunday.

In a 28-page booklet, the committee said that despite a trend toward better inter-group relations, in the U.S., "there has been some increase in blatantly bigoted activity."

A number of racists have reverted to brazen Nazism, the report said, adding:

"Since 1957, synagogue bombings, rare phenomena in the past, have occurred a number of times. A resurgent Ku Klux Klan and other extremist groups in the South have provided a focal point for anti-Semitic activities in that region."

To combat the tactics of a "relatively small" number of anti-Semites, the committee suggested a four-point program:

1. A "quarantine" on public attention for "the bigot who thrives on publicity."
2. Exposure of "covert bigots—who quietly give financial aid to hate-mongers."
3. Presentation of evidence to authorities where such actions violate federal, state or local laws.
4. Repudiation by institutions which anti-Semites claim to protect.

JUDGMENT RESERVED

Claim, Counter-Claim Follow Two-Car Crash

A claim for damages against Dr. E. L. McNiven of 2647 Satellite Street was heard in Victoria County Court last week as the result of a two-car collision at the junction of Oak Bay Avenue and Foul Bay Road.

The collision occurred at around 1:20 a.m. on Aug. 9 last. James L. Quinn of 2885 Bermuda Place, claimed $855 from Dr. McNiven in respect of damages to his car and Dr. McNiven counter-claimed for $1,473 for damages to his own car.

Judge J. B. Clearhue reserved judgment after a number of police witnesses told of interviewing the two drivers after the accident.

Mr. Quinn said he was driving north on Foul Bay Road at between 20 and 30 miles per hour and was crossing the Oak Bay Avenue intersection on a green light when the car driven by Dr. McNiven crashed into his.

Dr. McNiven, he said, was driving east on Oak Bay Avenue and crossed the intersection against a red light.

This was denied by Dr. McNiven, who said the light turned amber just as he reached the intersection. He caught a glimpse of the other car approaching on his right side.

The driver applied the brakes and swerved to the left but "kept on coming." He tried unsuccessfully to avoid a collision.

Dr. McNiven estimated his speed at between 30 and 35 miles an hour.

Constable William Beveridge Noyes of the Oak Bay police told of interviewing Mr. Quinn and Dr. McNiven after the accident.

He said Mr. Quinn was "not too co-operative" and was angry over the collision because he had just had his car fixed after an accident the previous week.

On that occasion, Mr. Quinn told police, his car was struck by a hit and run driver.

Lloyd McKenzie, QC, appeared for Dr. McNiven and D. B. McKinnon for Mr. Quinn.

FIRES RAGE UNCHECKED IN SASK. BUSHLANDS

PRINCE ALBERT (CP) — A pall of smoke hung over northern Saskatchewan during the weekend as forest fires continued to ravish its bushlands.

Two of 45 fires burning were out of control.

Fred Warburton, fire control officer for the provincial natural resources department, said fires in the Grassy Lake and Squaw Rapids areas were out of control, each burning over an area of about 25,000 acres.

The other 43 fires were burning in swampy areas, he said, or had been "run in" to areas where natural barriers would hold them in check.

"If we get half a break in the weather at all we will win out this week."

'WORSE THREAT THAN COMMUNISM'

WILLIAMSBURG, Va. (Reuters) — Dr. Arnold Toynbee said Saturday night that the West now finds itself "in a crisis of no lesser magnitude than either of the world wars."

Speaking at the annual celebration of the Virginian Declaration of Independence from Britain May 15, 1776, the British historian said the American-inspired revolution has become world-wide.

The majority of the human race, he added, was revolutionary-minded because it was suffering political, social and economic injustice.

"Two-thirds or three-quarters of mankind now are still living only just above the starvation line, and are still frequently dropping below it as America goes to offer herself to this hungry majority as their leader."

It is open to her to take the lead again in the American revolution in its present world-wide stage.

Dr. Toynbee criticized what he called the "rotteness" of Madison Avenue — centre of the U.S. advertising world — which he said artificially stimulated the demand for material goods that people would not dream of wanting if they were left to themselves.

"I would suggest that the destination of our Western civilization turns on our struggle with Madison Avenue even more than it turns on the issue of our struggle with communism," he said.

"Will the United States concentrate her efforts on trying to preserve the vested interests of the affluent minority of the human race? Will she take, as her measure of success, the quantity, per head, of material goods consumed at home, instead of measuring her success by the quantity of fundamental material and spiritual needs that she can help the still indigent majority of mankind to satisfy?"

"If America does take the lead in the American-born world revolution of our time, she will continue to march in the van of mankind along the main highway of human destiny. On the other hand, if she were to make the great refusal, she would be side-tracking herself. She would be inviting destiny to pass her by."

Protests from whites poured in Sunday against a government proposal to permit free sale of hard liquor by the bottle to South Africa's huge non-white majority.

A bill to this effect was presented in Parliament Friday.

"The nation gasps at wide concessions," headlined the Johannesburg Rand Daily Mail.

It said even the biggest liquor store operators were "flabbergasted" although they expressed pleasure at the prospect of much new business.

But leading churchmen called the plan bad and temperance officials denounced it as evil.

Saddest were the so-called "Shebeen Queens" who sell liquor illegally to Negroes in shebeens or speakeasies of segregated Negro townships at huge profits.

Until now, only a select few non-whites could buy liquor legally, with special permits.

Others of the 13,000,000 non-whites were limited to weak beer or bootleg liquor, restrictions that have long been a major grievance of non-whites.

The Rand Daily Mail said the wide-open sale proposal was "probably influenced by the fact that the police have found control of illicit liquor traffic in non-white townships almost impossible."

"But the government must be aware that the new bill is sure to be strongly opposed by temperance and church representatives who may even be powerful enough to have it reshaped during its course through Parliament."

UGANDA, QUEBEC

Admirals Guests At Ship Reunion

Officers who served in the cruiser HMCS Uganda, later HMCS Quebec, will hold a reunion in the wardroom at HMCS Naden Thursday at 6:30 p.m.

Principal guests will be Rear-Admiral E. W. Finch Noyes, flag officer Pacific Coast, and Mrs. Finch-Noyes. The admiral commanded the Quebec from September, 1953, to August, 1955.

Another guest will be Rear-Admiral K. F. Adams, RCN (Ret.), who commanded the Uganda from July, 1946, until she was paid off into reserve a year later.

HIT AT SALERNO

Originally a Royal Navy ship, the Uganda suffered extensive damage during the Salerno campaign and was sent to the United States for repairs.

She was commissioned into the RCN in October, 1944, joined the Pacific Fleet in March, 1945, and took part in the bombardments of Miyako Jima, Truk and the Japanese home islands.

TO CORONATION

The ship was brought out of reserve in 1952 and commissioned — as HMCS Quebec — as a fleet training ship.

A year later she led the Canadian squadron to the Coronation of Queen Elizabeth.

When the Quebec paid off in 1956 she had steamed over 150,000 miles.

Ex-officers who wish to attend the reunion should contact EV 2-9211, local 357 or 358.

LIFE ENDED OVER BACON

TOKYO (Reuters) — A bride from a remote village in northern Japan killed herself here because her husband wanted to eat bacon and she did not know what it was, the Japanese national newspaper Asahi Shimbun reported today. She left a note saying: "I am sorry, I cannot cook city food."

Leading Pianist To Examine City Candidates

One of Canada's foremost pianists, Miss Rose Goldblatt, of the McGill Faculty of Music, will examine Victoria candidates in piano for Tuesday.

At 16, Miss Goldblatt won a scholarship to study at the Royal College of Music in London, England, where she spent five years.

She then continued her studies in New York under the Dutch pianist, Egon Petri.

By building up an impressive repertoire of Canadian music, she has encouraged Canadian composers to further and more intensive writing. Many new compositions have been dedicated to her by appreciative composers.

Miss Goldblatt is well known on radio and TV programs on the CBC.

Japanese Seeking Trade With Soviets

TOKYO (Reuters) — Japanese industrialists and traders are showing a fresh interest in enlarging trade with Communist countries, especially the Soviet Union and China.

This is part of their effort to cultivate as many new markets as possible under the Japanese government's program to double the national income in 10 years.

They have been particularly encouraged by an increase in trade with Russia under a three-year trade agreement signed in March, 1960. This trade rose from $21,000,000 for exports and imports combined in 1957 to $140,000,000 in 1960.

The trade plan for 1961 provides for Soviet imports, including steel products, machinery, ships and industrial plant facilities, worth $85,000,000, and Japanese exports, including timber, coking coal, crude oil and other raw materials, worth $75,000,000.

Trade with China, suspended by Peking in May, 1960, was resumed on a limited private basis in the second half of 1960.

War of Words Cut by Lack Of Paper

HONG KONG (AP) — A shortage of paper is beginning to cut into Red China's propaganda warfare.

Red China exported 297 publications in 1957. Two years later, it was exporting 40. Today only seven or eight major publications, mostly printed on grey paper, are available for overseas distribution. And consumption of paper is being cut still further, according to reports from the Chinese mainland.

The Peking People's Daily, the Pravda of Red China, announced early this year it was cutting the size of its regular editions from eight pages to four pages twice a week.

The Communists are also cutting down on the circulation of newspapers and magazines, to economize on paper.

Red China also has launched a "book-borrowing" drive to save paper consumption.

The publisher of People's Daily, citing the paper shortage and the shortage of publications, said people should borrow more books.

Paper production in China has always been limited because of the relatively small size of China's forests. The Communist government in the past imported paper from Eastern European countries.

Picken Upsets City's Frasier

VANCOUVER (CP) — Top-seeded John Frasier of Victoria was walloped 6-0, 6-2, by Bill Picken in the final of the Farwest Invitational men's singles tennis title at West Vancouver Sunday.

Picken found the asphalt courts to his liking as he ran through four matches with a loss of only 10 games and didn't give Frasier a chance to get started.

It was the first time in three meetings this year that Picken has defeated Frasier.

One theory is that Gertrude's species is a hangover from prehistoric times. She was brought over for scrutiny by worm experts at the London Zoo.

The worm can expand her thin brown body to five feet or contract it to two feet. She weighs only about a pound and is so delicate that the slightest bump or temperature change causes her body to disintegrate.

crystals and damped loam. After a while he announced: "I can't find the worm! It must be curled up very small at the bottom of the box."

The lid was replaced and the box taken off for more careful opening at the zoo.

Gertrude, 2½ inches thick, was discovered by American explorer Mrs. Marie Latham in the Andes Mountains of Colombia.

A 200 employee broke the seals and lowered his hand in side to fumble through ice.

5½ FEET OF BAIT

Gertrude's in a Sulk

LONDON (AP) — Gertrude, the giant earthworm, arrived in England Sunday and sulked in the bottom of her ice-chilled crate.

Airport officials daintily declined to open the box in which the 5½-foot-long Gertrude travelled by airline from New York.

Three Men Hold Key To Hospital

DUNCAN—Success of the Cowichan district plans for a $3,655,586 hospital now rests almost completely in the hands of three North Cowichan councillors.

These are the three councillors who voted to rescind North Cowichan support of the plan, yet on Saturday saw four districts, including their own, pass hospital bylaws with overwhelming majorities.

Duncan led the list with a vote of 909-71, or a percentage in favor of 92.7 per cent. Koksilah Valley voted 1,145-142 or 88 per cent in favor; North Cowichan was 1,731-288, or 85.6 per cent, and Lake Cowichan was 683-192, or 76.5 per cent.

FINAL READING

Reeve Donald C. Morton, of North Cowichan, said the bylaw must be given final reading in council, and that it could be defeated by the three councillors.

They represent the Chemainus area, where residents feel the Cowichan hospital district has taken over part of the Chemainus hospital district.

TWO MUST CHANGE

"The large affirmative vote justifies the stand in favor of the hospital which was taken by Coun. Tony Staples and myself," he said. "When the bylaw comes up to final reading it will require a majority of two-thirds, which means four out of five members of our council. Two of the objecting councillors would have to change their stand."

If the bylaw is defeated, then the hospital plan as it now stands is stalled. The reeve suggested, though, that it could be revived in its present form within a period of six months.

"Next regular meeting of the council is June 21, but I will call an earlier meeting if the council wishes," he said. "I only hope that the heavy vote in favor of the hospital might influence the other councillors."

APATHY REGRETTED

Those objecting to the hospital plan are Couns. Gerry Smith, William Bowles and Reg Clegg.

"Six months ago I called for discussion on the hospital plan, and it is on record that I regretted the apathy shown by residents toward the bylaw we were preparing," he said.

The three councillors voted May 29 to rescind the bylaw in regard to North Cowichan's $512,569 contribution to the 144-bed hospital, then a week

Boy Killed In Dash For Theatre

ALERT BAY (CP)—Six-year-old Douglas Coon was as anxious as any boy to get out of the stuffy old car and get into the movie theatre.

When his father, logger Harry Coon, stopped Saturday opposite the theatre, Doug was out like a shot.

He was hit by a car, and died on the street, the first traffic victim in the up-island community for more than three years.

VANCOUVER ISLAND ROUNDUP

Courtenay Plans Three-Day Shopping Mall

COURTENAY — Merchants here are considering arranging a three-day shopping mall to coincide with the training camp session of B.C. Lions, probably in the first or second week of July.

They plan to close off a portion of Fifth Street. Highways department permission will be required, since that part of the street concerned is a secondary provincial highway.

Meanwhile, Chamber of Commerce and Lions Club officials are completing plans for a Wednesday night fundraising dinner.

The money will be used to defray $3,000 expenses arising from a renovation program at Lewis Park, which will be used by B.C. Lions as a training camp.

NANAIMO — Russell Inkster, board president of Nanaimo's new regional hospital, said Friday night the building committee has decided bunker oil will be used by the hospital for fuel.

He said a request by the Nanaimo, Alberni and District Labor Council to use coal as fuel, was rejected because members felt the supply was not reliable over a long-range period.

NANAIMO — The Fish and Game Club here has suggested that dogs which chase deer be hunted by provincial officers and shot like cougars.

"The dogs should be treated the same way as any other predator," said Robert Pederson.

He told the group's regular meeting here Friday night that at least 10 deer had been drowned when chased into the sea recently.

COURTENAY — City council, acting on the request of civil defence authorities, has named Campbell River village commission as its successor in the event that the council is obliterated by nuclear warfare or other disaster.

The move will assure continuity of government.

SIDNEY — A Vancouver man charged with breaking and entering Cunninghams Drug Store here April 21 was committed Friday for trial at the fall assizes.

Accused is Ronald Dale Haaf, 3844 Victoria Drive. Bail of $3,500 was set by Magistrate D. G. Ashby.

SOOKE — Grounds for the annual All-Sooke Day track and field events and loggers' sports have been moved to higher ground on Sooke River flats.

Change was made because of damage caused by flooding on the old site last winter.

The grandstand is in place, a new running track is graded and will be seeded this week, and the parking lot has been extended to accommodate 3,000 cars. Volunteer workers and machines moved 3,000 yards of gravel to the new site.

The event will open on Friday of the 22-mile marathon from Victoria city hall to the flats. Other sports and exhibitions will be held the following day.

SOLUTION WEDNESDAY

Is there something you want to know? Do you want to win a set of valuable books or other instructive prizes? Then ask Andy. Andy will answer questions submitted by child readers and those who submit the questions he selects to answer will receive worthwhile prizes. The youngster who asks the first question answered each day receives a 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia and of the second question a Hammond Atlas or Globe.

Address your questions to "Ask Andy," Victoria Daily Times.

Andy sends a complete, 20-volume set of the World Book Encyclopedia to Lyndon Rosenberg, age 13, of Houston, Texas, for his question:

Who Invented the Telescope?

The wonderful instrument was invented almost 400 years ago and it has always been fun to turn it on the skies for a close-up look at the heavenly bodies. But it never was so much fun as now. Many a morning finds old Andy sleepy-eyed from watching those thrilling man-made satellites pedal around the earth. Now is the time for every young person to save up his earnings and pocket money to buy a telescope of his very own.

There is some confusion about who actually invented the telescope because early in the 1600's several people tried to claim the honor by applying for patents. Most people give the credit to Hans Lippershey, a spectacle maker of Delft, Holland. One story tells how he lifted two lenses to the light. By sheer accident they were the right kinds of convex and concave lenses, and again by sheer accident he held them in just the right position. Through them he got a close-

First to See Wonders

During the winter of 1609 and 1610, scientific history was being made on a quiet house top by the canals of Venice. Galileo turned his little home-made telescope on the heavens and saw great wonders which mankind had never guessed. He was the first to see the changing phases of Venus, the dazzling rings of Saturn, the moons of Jupiter and the teeming stars of the Milky Way like a swarm of golden bees. What's more, this brilliant man used the facts he saw to figure out the Solar System.

This history-making telescope magnified only 32 times. Its lenses magnified by refracting or bending the rays of light. In the year that Galileo died in Italy, Newton was born in England. Newton carried on the great work of Galileo and went far beyond. He made a reflecting telescope, a cup of metal to catch and magnify the light rays with a mirror to reflect the image to an eyepiece.

The great telescope probing the skies on Mount Wilson and Mount Palomar were born when the original invention was made by accident. The improvements that made them possible were added one by one through the centuries by a long list of thoughtful men.

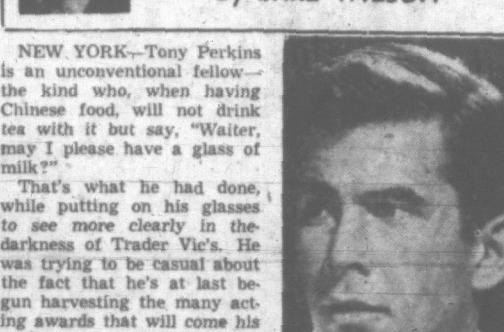

Andy sends a Hammond's Library World Atlas to Robin Kinsler, 8, Verdunville, W.Va., for his question:

Where Is the Petrified Forest?

Petrified forests have been found in California, Wyoming, Washington, New York and several other states. The most famous of them is a vast area in northern Arizona near the town of Adamana. Here, for 40 square miles the ground is strewn with ancient logs and tree trunks long since turned to solid stone.

WASHINGTON (AP)—A federal prison official said last week violence on television is a cause of juvenile delinquency, making it harder to recruit good police officers and hurts morale of those already in law enforcement service.

James V. Bennett, director of the United States bureau of prisons, gave these views to a Senate subcommittee which heard also that TV officials have ordered more blood-and-thunder written into programs to jack up viewer ratings.

IT HAPPENED LAST NIGHT

By EARL WILSON

NEW YORK—Tony Perkins is an unconventional fellow—the kind who, when having Chinese food, will not drink tea with it but say, "Waiter, may I please have a glass of milk?"

That's what he had done, while putting on his glasses to see more clearly in the darkness of Trader Vic's. He was trying to be casual about the fact that he's at last begun harvesting the many acting awards that will come his way.

"The only thing I ever won before was a medal for arithmetic when I was in grade school—and I still have it," he said.

He's copped two big ones. Ingrid Bergman had just written congratulations for his winning the Cannes Film Festival's best acting award for their picture, "Goodbye, Again."

"I was watching the presentations on television with my children," Ingrid wrote to Tony.

"I felt a little beaten," she said, "when my kids asked me, 'What's the matter? Weren't you in it, too?'"

And on June 30, Tony, only 29, will get the French Academie Cinema's Silver Star—akin to our Oscar—for "Psycho."

Tony is definitely moving in the select company of the greats now—having made love to one older woman, Ingrid, in "Goodbye, Again," he now shoots off to Paris, London and Greece to have love made at him by Melina Mercouri who'll play his stepmother in "Phaedra."

Strolling along the West 50s, where he lives, or even 5th Ave., or Park, he's likely not to be recognized. And on a recent visit to Hialeah race track in Florida, he couldn't get a cheque cashed on his face.

"Then I remembered that I had, very tightly-folded in my watch pocket, a $10 bill. So with fire in my eye I marched to the $2 window. . . . He won $150.

Tony's taking piano tutoring, and he's forming his own producing corporation. "My lawyer came up with the suggestion we use my initials TP, as a starter and call it 'Wigwam Productions' and use a teepee as a symbol," he said. (TP-teepee, see?)

"My initials to the public are AP, so I said maybe we could call it APE productions and have a monkey as a symbol."

"DO ANYTHING"

Tony still reads a dozen scripts a month looking for movies, plays, musicals, TV shows. "On Broadway, I'd do anything—Shakespeare, Marx Brothers, a operetta—I don't care."

"I love to sing, I can be loud, and on key, and carry out a scene—I enjoy it tremendously."

He has turned down scores of shows but, he says, "I should have turned down more!"

'SUSPICIOUS' SIGNALS PICKED UP FROM SPACE

JODRELL BANK, England (CP)—More unidentified signals "of a suspicious character" were picked up by the giant Jodrell Bank radio telescope today.

Sir Bernard Lovell, director of the observatory, said it was possible the signals had an earthly origin but he could think of no source on earth to fit the evidence.

Lovell is working with two Russian space tracking experts in a final search for Russia's "lost" rocket to Venus, which now is about 62,000,000 miles away.

Airliner Crashes Killing 19

CAIRO (Reuters)—Nineteen persons were killed when a Dutch airliner hit a sand dune and broke in two when attempting to land here today.

Everything appeared normal as the four-engine plane made its approach. The tower at Cairo airport cleared the plane for the approach and wished the pilot a "happy landing."

The plane broke in two after the impact.

KLM, the Royal Dutch Airline, announced that the plane carried 29 passengers and a crew of seven. There were 17 survivors, four of them crew members.

Among the freight carried by the airliner was more than $2.5 million in gold bars.

NO CANADIANS ABOARD

Some of the survivors were in critical condition, the announcement said. It was believed there were no Canadians aboard.

The plane was a four-engine turbo-prop Lockheed Electra flying from Amsterdam via Rome to Cairo, Karachi, Rangoon and Bangkok. The plane plowed into the top of a sand dune about three miles from the airport during its landing approach.

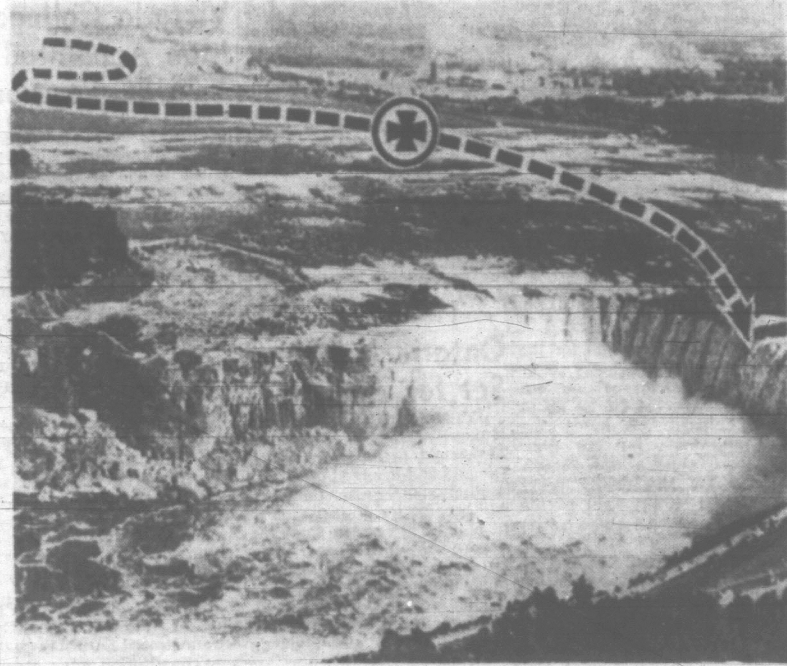

The crash area was strewn with clothing, shoes, luggage and children's toys. Some bodies were burned beyond recognition.

FOUND ALIVE

One man was found alive 200 yards from the wreckage.

A dead child lay next to him. The survivors included Australian pilot Kenneth Reynolds, 37, who broke both legs.

Of the rest of the crew, the Dutch co-pilot was killed, and the flight engineer, purser and a stewardess were injured. The bodies of two stewards were missing.

ROUTE TO DEATH

Dotted line indicates route to death taken by four persons in small motorboat in Niagara River above Horseshoe Falls on Canadian side. Apparently stalled by engine trouble, the boat swung out and drifted through gate of hydro control dam that stretches halfway across river. Spot marked X is where boat capsized. Three persons went over the falls and the fourth was sucked down a power plant intake.

SMALL BOAT CAPSIZES

Four Swept to Death Over Niagara Cataract

NIAGARA FALLS, Ont. (CP)—Four persons died Sunday night when a small motorboat capsized in the seething rapids of the Niagara River and was swept over the 162-foot falls.

ARRESTED

Sonny Liston, top contender for the heavyweight boxing title was arrested today on a charge of impersonating a policeman. With a companion, also arrested, he was released on bail of $300 pending a hearing Wednesday.

Police Foil Kidnap Plot In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Police said today they are investigating a plot to kidnap an Ottawa businessman's child.

The city police department said in a statement "Confidential information has been received by the Ottawa police department to the effect that an attempt would be made to abduct the child of a prominent Ottawa businessman."

The police feel that this attempt will be foiled, the statement added.

Officials declined to name the family involved or to provide additional detail.

The Ottawa Journal reports that the case involves a $250,000 extortion plot and that the child is a boy in his teens. It adds that the boy has been under close guard since police first got word of the plot.

Ropes Slipped From His Grasp

Niagara parks commission police, who patrol the riverfront in this famed tourist and honeymoon centre, were notified of the boat's difficulties. Cpl. Hugh MacIsaac and Const. Robert Chervoda sped to a bridge near the power company intake where one man was struggling in the water.

"We threw him a rope," said Chervoda. "He held on for a minute or less. Then he slipped away and was swept into the intake."

At the same time the second man, apparently unconscious, floated by in midstream headed for the brink of the falls.

Sgt. James Molloy of the Niagara Falls, Ont., city police, saw part of the tragedy. He was about a half mile from the brink of the falls when he saw the boat.

"I could hear a woman in the back of the boat screaming," he said. "A man was moving around in the boat as if he were trying to do something to turn it around."

"For a few seconds, it seemed to be going upriver. Then the current turned it sideways."

It went over one drop and another. Then it disappeared under the water.

"One of the women in the crowd knelt down to pray. Everyone was stunned. There was nothing anyone could do."

Mrs. Harry Wilson, a sister of Mr. Stewart, said her brother was a good boatman and spent much of his spare time on the river.

Vaniers Flying North

OTTAWA (CP)—Governor-General and Mme. Vanier left today by air on their first official visit to the Northwest Territories.

Radar Line Involved In 'Swap'

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today that Canada and the United States have agreed to a joint aircraft production program to re-equip the RCAF and help NATO allies abroad.

The plan involves a swap of responsibilities: In return for taking over operation of 16 Pinetree radar stations now manned in this country by the U.S., Canada will receive 66 American F-101B Voodoo jet fighters for its RCAF home defence squadrons under North American Air Defence Command.

In addition, the U.S. and Canada will join in production in this country of $200,000,000 worth of American Starfighter jets for NATO allies in Europe under the mutual aid program. The U.S. will bear $150,000,000 of this cost.

The U.S. will save about $50,000,000 a year by Canada assuming the training, operation, maintenance and financing of the 16 Pinetree stations. Only five Pinetree stations at the eastern extremity of the line in Labrador will remain an American responsibility.

EXTENDS OVER 3 YEARS

The F-104G Starfighter jets, now under order for RCAF squadrons in Europe, will be built for mutual aid in a program extending approximately three years, starting in mid-1963.

A government source said the program will provide about 7,000 Canadian jobs for that period through prime and secondary suppliers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the agreement, worked out in lengthy negotiations with the U.S. government, would ensure more effective use of the productive capacities, skills and resources of each country. It also would demonstrate the mutual determination of the two countries to strengthen NATO and North American air defence.

He said the Voodoo jet fighters to be obtained from the U.S. would be Canadian owned, and armed with conventional weapons. They will be used to re-equip the RCAF squadrons allocated to NORAD, and will be operated in accordance with NORAD plans.

REPLACE CP-100s

The squadrons have been flying the obsolete Canadian-designed CP-100 twin jet all-weather fighters.

The Voodoos will be delivered immediately and taken into service as rapidly as the air force can absorb them, he said.

The American planes are being obtained by Canada in return for the assumption by Canada of the U.S. commitment on the Pinetree Radar Line, which runs roughly parallel to the Canada-U.S. border; north of the more settled parts of Canada.

Lionel Crevier (L-Montreal Laurier), commenting on the announcement, said the cost to Canada of the three-cornered deal, as outlined by the prime minister, "may well be only the down payment."

East, West Both Urge Halt in Laos Fighting

WIRE BRIEFS

Green Back to Geneva

OTTAWA (UPI)—External Affairs Minister Howard Green said today he will fly to Geneva Tuesday to resume leadership of the Canadian delegation to the 14-nation conference on Laos.

Canadian Aid Asked

OTTAWA (UPI)—United Nations General Assembly President Frederick Boland today called on middle powers such as Canada to bridge the gap between the West and the Afro-Asian bloc.

'Copter Lost With 3 Men

VANCOUVER (CP)—A helicopter and three men are missing in interior British Columbia, the RCAF air-sea rescue centre here reported today.

The air force said an Okanagan Helicopters Limited craft, piloted by Jim Murphy of nearby North Surrey, left Lillooet last Friday to pick up two prospectors 45 miles northwest of the Cariboo community.

No word has been received from either the prospectors or the pilot since the craft left Lillooet.

GENEVA (UPI)—The West and the Communist delegates compromised today and agreed to send an appeal to both sides in Laos to co-operate with the International Control Commission on a truce.

But new trouble developed shortly after the delegates to the 14-nation conference on Laos returned to the conference table for the first time since last Wednesday when the sessions were interrupted by a Western boycott over Communist cease-fire violations. Thailand walked out in a huff over a question of procedure.

Chief U.S. delegate W. Averell Harriman injected the only note of urgency into the two-hour, 22-minute meeting by demanding "expeditious arrangements" for sending the ICC "necessary equipment and facilities" so it could properly do its policing job.

British Foreign Secretary Lord Home presided at today's session and announced that the three rival princes of Laos would meet in Zurich in a companion attempt with the conference to reach a solution for the Southeast Asian kingdom's troubles.

SHOT IN HEAD, B.C. BURGLAR SUSPECT DIES

EDMONTON (CP)—A man shot in the head early Sunday while grappling with an RCMP constable on the streets of Chetwynd, B.C., died in hospital here Sunday night.

He was John Carter Cockell, 40, of Williams Lake.

Police in Prince George said the shooting took place shortly after midnight Saturday while Constable Morley Kitchen was investigating a break-in at a hardware store in Chetwynd, about 60 miles west of Dawson Creek in the Peace River area.

The bullet pierced Cockell's head just over the left eye and came to rest at the base of his skull.

Worst Stage In Congo Over-Dag

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)

Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjold said today the "grievous stage" has passed in The Congo, barring the unexpected.

Hammarskjold made the statement shortly after announcing an agreement with President Joseph Kasavubu giving the United Nations a strong voice in Congolese finances and making $10 million available to bolster bogged-down economy of The Congo.

Hammarskjold told a news conference "the main trend seems to be a constructive trend" in The Congo. He said he based his encouraged outlook on UN contract with native leaders and "their willingness to co-operate, and to go ahead."

"The grievous stage has passed," he said, "with the reservation that the unexpected is always possible."

The secretary-general said that the prospect was "encouraging" that the Congolese parliament would meet soon.

Trains Stop for Philip

LONDON (AP)—A row blew up today over the case of the sleeping prince—Prince Philip.

A group of Labor Members of Parliament called for an investigation into the cancellation of a number of trains early last Wednesday so their rumblings wouldn't disturb the prince while he slept in a royal train parked outside a Devon station.

Philip was on a tour of youth clubs. His special train had stopped for the night at the little town of Thorverton.

So Philip could sleep late, railway authorities cancelled five early trains and laid on a fleet of taxis and buses to take passengers on a 30-minute detour to connect with other trains.

"It is disgraceful that passengers should have been inconvenienced in this way," said Labor member George

Strauss. "We're going to look into it."

Marcus Lipton agreed: "It is quite unreasonable to upset railway timetables for the sake of one person."

'Double Heart' Makes Her Tick

By MONTE ROBERTS

Sea-minded Victoria citizens this week are taking advantage of the U.S. Navy's invitation to inspect a warship whose peacetime role is warning.

USS Scanner, berthed at Esquimalt Harbor, is one of the ocean-stationed extensions of the North American warning lines—the DEW LINE in the Arctic, and the Mid-Canada and Pinetree lines in Canada.

Scanner will be leaving Friday for her station, about 400 miles off the west coast of Vancouver Island.

Her's is the northernmost post of five units of Radar

Picket Squadron One, operating out of San Francisco.

Built into her Liberty-type cargo hull is a complex of highly sensitive, long-range radar gear operating off three main, continuously revolving scopes.

The watch-and-warning complex has a double "heart," the combat information centre, where radar information is correlated and all sea or air objects plotted, and the communications centre, in direct and instant contact with NORAD shore stations by teletype, radio and telephone.

Even these two nerve centres are on public view, although highly restricted equipment has been "secured" during the stay in port.

The public will be welcomed aboard again from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m., Tuesday and Wednesday.

As befits a ship which spends 67 per cent of her time on monotonous sea duty, liveability is of the best, including a big hobby shop, motion picture theatre, and a crew's lounge which would be the envy of a destroyer officer.

Saturday and Sunday, about 500 visitors were aboard, and Scanner's captain, Cmdr. Burton A. Shaw, says he hopes to entertain hundreds more.

Communications centre is only minutes away from shore.

Size of giant Scanner 'eye' dwarfs sailor.

Department Store, Marina Oak Bay Investment Lures

A block-size department store and a first-class marina development are suggested for Oak Bay in a special B.C. government survey of investment opportunities across the province.

The survey, released today by the trade department, covers 10 B.C. regions, and will be available for anyone interested in establishing new commercial or business ventures.

It was compiled from answers to a questionnaire submitted to chambers of commerce and boards of trade.

The Oak Bay Board of Trade suggested a land assembly program to develop the department block.

It also proposed the marina at the site of the Oak Bay breakwater built by the federal government last year.

The land in the area is owned by the municipality and present leases expire in June, 1962, says the trade department's report.

The board of trade suggested a restaurant be included in the marina plans. It said that interested parties should write to Oak Bay council, which will be considering lease renewals probably this month.

The big need throughout B.C., according to the overall survey, is for hotels and motels to boost the tourist industry. Almost every community queried suggested such developments.

Opportunities for motels, in particular, exist in such Vancouver Island areas as Central Saanich, Chemainus, Galiano Island, Ladysmith, Nanaimo, Parksville, Port Alberni, Sayward.

THIRD PLACE FOR SAANICH CANOE RACERS

An 11-man canoe from Saanich placed third out of 18 entries in racing Saturday at the 16th annual Lummi "stompin'" or water carnival, at Bellingham.

Skipper Moses Sam Piloted John Dean and his Tsartlip crew from West Saanich into third spot behind Vancouver's North Burrard, and the defending Chellahs crew from Chilliwack.

On Sunday Mermald of Galiano won a photo finish over the Chellahs crew, with Vancouver third. Defeat of the Galiano paddlers Saturday marked their only loss in seven starts this year.

Design Change 'Possible' For Fountain

Works Minister W. N. Chant said today suggestions for changing the design of the controversial fountain planned at the Legislative Buildings will be considered, but there is little chance the entire project will be killed.

Since the $45,000 plan was announced last week there has been a storm of public argument about its merits—artistic and practical.

Mr. Chant said he has received numerous phone calls, and a visit from a delegation of local artists who examined a model of the design for bronze animals symbolizing B.C.'s natural history.

"There certainly has been a lot of interest in it—more than I ever dreamed," he said.

POSSIBLE

As for changing the design: "These things are always possible."

"I'll be taking it up," added the minister, "the matter will be further discussed."

As for changing the entire project: "It is government thinking that the back of the Buildings should have a fountain."

Wiring and water pipes are already installed at the location, off Superior Street.

'NOT A GIFT'

Mr. Chant said the government does not regard the new fountain as a gift to the city of Victoria for its 1962 centenary.

Nor is it intended specifically to mark the centenary.

"But if people want to look upon it in that manner, there's nothing wrong in that," said Mr. Chant.

He added that he knows of no specific government offer of a centennial gift.

"I can neither promise nor deny anything will be done," he said.

Liberals Map Strategy Here In September

The B.C. Liberal Party will plan its next federal election campaign at a provincial conference in Victoria next September, it was announced from provincial headquarters today.

"We expect a federal election next fall or at the latest in the spring of 1962," Liberal organizer Ronald Fairclough told The Times.

"Main purpose of the Victoria convention will be to form a hard-fighting organization in anticipation of a swing back towards the Liberal Party."

"We feel public support of the Diefenbaker government is deteriorating fast, and the recent by-elections have shown that the majority of Canadians no longer favor his government."

Date and place of the September conference have still to be arranged.

Mr. Fairclough said all B.C. Liberal candidates, including Capt. David Groos, defeated Liberal candidate in the recent Esquimalt-Saanich by-election, are expected to attend.

It is anticipated Capt. Groos will run in the next federal election, he said.

Also attending will be the eight area vice-presidents, including Arthur Cox, vice-president for Vancouver Island.

The conference will discuss broadening of the party's financial appeal in B.C. and revision of its constitution.

Ottawa Exhibit To Feature Stamp Showings

An exhibit on loan from the Philatelic Archives in Ottawa will be the feature attraction at a stamp exhibition in the Hudson's Bay Douglas Room on Friday from 1 to 9 p.m. and on Saturday from 9 a.m. to 3.30 p.m.

Enthusiastic stamp collectors will be able to see the inverted St. Lawrence Seaway stamps, 250 years of self-government in Nova Scotia, and the drawings, die proofs and finished stamp approved by the postmaster-general to commemorate the centenary of B.C.

The Tri Club Exhibition is being held by the Greater Victoria Philatelic Society and the Victoria Junior Stamp Club.

SPCA Up in Arms Over Rat Deaths In School 'Clinic'

Approval Seen On Tree-Lined Street Project

Special Meeting Set for Tuesday

Acting Mayor M. H. Mooney today said he expected a stalemate on the proposed Douglas Street beautification plan to be broken soon.

He called a special city council meeting for Tuesday afternoon after returning from a Capital Improvement District Commission session on the problem.

Ald. Mooney said council will be asked to endorse a parking ban on both sides of Douglas from the Fountain Circle north as originally requested by the CIDC. The ban had been approved only from Burnside north.

SAANICH OPPOSED

Saanich council also opposed the parking ban essential to the $180,000 project which would create tree-lined boulevards on both sides of the street from the Fountain Circle to East Saanich Road.

Ald. Mooney said Saanich opponents to the project, Coun. Joseph Casey and Coun. Leslie Passmore, attended the CIDC meeting.

"I think the whole thing will be ironed out," he said. "Everything points to the fact that we all want to beautify the Douglas Street entrance."

"I think we'll all co-operate to make this government project possible."

Dietary Experiments Horrible for Children

Classroom experiments resulting in the death of white rats came under fire today by the Victoria SPCA.

Local secretary-manager N. H. Stephens said the society began investigating the experiments after a number of parents complained that children were going home with tales of rats dying by degrees through poor diet.

The one school singled out was S. J. Willis Junior High, where the nutritional object lesson was conducted recently in Grade Nine, using four rats.

Principal Bernard Gillie said such experiments had been conducted "for years" in many schools and until now he had never heard of any parent's complaint.

FOR THREE YEARS

Mr. Gillies said science and home economics departments co-operated on the experiment at his school, and had done so for about three years.

There were deaths for the first time this year, he said.

The experiment usually covers a month in which two rats are fed a balanced diet and two receive food of poor nutritional value, such as pop, candy and cake.

For two weeks the students watch the pair eating candy decline in general condition and weight, and a daily record of weight and appearance is kept on both groups for comparison by graph.

DIET REVERSED

Then the diet is reversed and the improvement in the poor group is noted.

"It presents a particularly striking picture, a simple, straightforward and humane way of demonstrating the importance of diet," Mr. Gillie said.

"The lesson is most thoroughly impressed on them."

Rats are supplied through the provincial department of health, which approves of the experiment, Mr. Stephens found.

BAD EXAMPLE

"It is an extremely bad example to children to do this thing, and actually, it's against the Criminal Code," said Mr. Stephens. "We've had lots of

Port Alberni Car Wins Drag Race In 14 Seconds

Fastest car on the strip at a Sunday drag race sponsored by the Quarter Milers of Victoria was a 1959 fuel-injected Corvette, driven by Cliff West of Port Alberni, which covered the quarter-mile in 14 seconds from a standing start.

It was estimated he would be exceeding 90 miles per hour at the end of the strip, located on the B.C. Cement Co. Ltd. road near Shawigan Lake.

Trophy winners, their classes, and entries were as follows:

Wes Mohart, A motorcycle, BSA; Ben Hercock, B motorcycle, Norton; J. Foster, A sports, '59 Morgan; Ron Ford, C gas, '59 Ford; Gerry Smith, A modified, '32 Ford, 11 of Victoria.

Gil Dore, B stock, '57 Chev; Bob Poirier, D stock, '48 Ford; Cliff West, B modified, '59 Corvette, all of Port Alberni.

complaints from parents about it.

"Children go home reporting, 'One of the rats is dead.' The other is dying. It's teaching children cruelty. I can't see any educational value in it at all."

"The first thing you know, they'll be experimenting with their own pets," Mr. Stephens said.

When he complained to Dr. J. A. Taylor, deputy provincial health officer, the doctor was upset that there had been complaint.

OBJECT LESSON

"It is a wonderful object lesson," Dr. Taylor told Mr. Stephens, and criticized the SPCA for lodging a protest.

"He said we should be going about our proper business," the SPCA manager said.

He said he was in touch with the school board and was told the Greater Victoria School District officials were not aware of the experiments.

NO COMMENT

Deputy minister of education Dr. J. F. K. English told Mr. Stephens he had no comment to make and referred him to Dr. Taylor.

The society's B.C. executive director, T. R. Hughes, in Vancouver, told Mr. Stephens he had been assured recently by the department of education that the experiments would not continue in B.C.

New Propeller For Big Tanker

A propeller change, cleaning and painting operations are now under way on the Greek tanker Michael Carras in the Esquimalt drydock.

Not quite three years old, the 40,500-ton vessel was built in Japan and carries 285,000 barrels of oil on her regular run between the Persian Gulf and San Pedro, Calif. It takes her about 26 days to make the trip, steam turbines pushing her along at a cruising speed of 20 knots.

Yarrows Ltd. is handling the refit, which includes changing a propeller and shaft with a total value of $150,000.

The Michael Carras is the second ship of the Carras fleet to use the drydock recently. A bigger tanker, the Princess Sophie, was in for a refit a few weeks ago.

NAVAL SHIP MOVEMENTS

Fortune, Cowichan, James Bay, Miramichi return 11 a.m. Tuesday.

Fraser left today, returns Friday morning.

ASK THE TIMES

Q. Can you tell me if John Henry, the "steel drivin' man" in the American folksong, really existed? A.B.F.

A. The story of John Henry originated in West Virginia about 1872. He was one of the steel drivers drilling the Big Bend Tunnel on the Chesapeake and Ohio Railroad. (A steel driver drove a drill with a heavy hammer, cutting the holes for powder charges.) No agreement has been reached as to whether John Henry was a Negro or a white man, but he is famed for his massive constitution. According to tradition, John Henry died of a burst heart when he entered into a race against the then newly-invented steam drill. He is supposed to have beaten the drill, but killed himself in the effort. More reliable data indicates that he was actually killed in a cave-in.

"At any rate we hope to have it opened early in the year, possibly while the legislature is still in session."

The $2,000,000 building is at the corner of Blanshard and Courtney Streets.

A storm heading this way from the Pacific will give increasing cloud through Tuesday, with the possibility of showers Tuesday night or Wednesday morning, weatherman William Mackie predicted today.

The navy auxiliary vessel MV Laymore, engaged in seismographic work for the Pacific Naval Laboratory, dropped the charges recently and was unable to explode them due to a break in the cable connected with the firing mechanism.

Spokesmen emphasized that there is absolutely no danger to local craft.

Pleading not guilty to a charge of keeping a common gaming house at 561 Fisgard, Lee Youn was remanded to June 19 for trial when he appeared in city police court today.

ROUTE TO DEATH

Dotted line indicates route to death taken by four persons in small motorboat in Niagara River above Horse-shoe Falls on Canadian side. Apparently stalled by engine trouble, the boat swung out and drifted through gate of hydro control dam that stretches halfway across river. Spot marked X is where boat capsized. Three persons went over the falls and the fourth was sucked down a power plant intake.

SHOT IN HEAD,
B.C. BURGLAR SUSPECT DIES

EDMONTON (CP)—A man shot in the head early Sunday while grappling with an RCMP constable on the streets of Chetwynd, B.C., died in hospital here Sunday night. He was John Carter Cockell, 40, of Williams Lake.

Police in Prince George said the shooting took place shortly after midnight Saturday while Constable Morley Kitchen was investigating a break-in at a hardware store in Chetwynd, about 60 miles west of Dawson Creek in the Peace River area.

The bullet pierced Cockell's head just over the left eye and came to rest at the base of his skull.

Trains Stop for Philip

LONDON (AP)—A row blew up today over the case of the sleeping prince—Prince Philip.

A group of Labor Members of Parliament called for an investigation into the cancellation of a number of trains early last Wednesday so their rumblings wouldn't disturb the prince while he slept in a royal train parked outside a Devon station.

Philip was on a tour of youth clubs. His special train had stopped for the night at the little town of Thorverton. So Philip could sleep late, railway authorities cancelled five early trains and laid on a fleet of taxis and buses to take passengers on a 30-minute detour to connect with other trains.

"It is disgraceful that passengers should have been inconvenienced in this way," said Labor member George Strauss. "We're going to look into it."

Marcus Lipton agreed: "It is quite unreasonable to upset railway timetables for the sake of one person."

"None of the passengers complained," said a spokesman for Britain's state-owned railroad.

Worst Stage
In Conao
Over-Dag

UNITED NATIONS (UPI)—Secretary-General Dag Hammarskjöld said today the "grievous stage" has passed in The Congo, barring the unexpected.

Hammarskjöld made the statement shortly after announcing an agreement with President Joseph Kasavubu giving the United Nations a strong voice in Congolese finances and making $10 million available to bolster bogged-down economy of The Congo.

Hammarskjöld told a news conference "the main trend seems to be a constructive trend" in The Congo. He said he based his encouraged outlook on UN contract with native leaders and "their willingness to co-operate and to go ahead."

"The grievous stage has passed," he said, "with the reservation that the unexpected is always possible."

The secretary-general said that the prospect was "encouraging" that the Congolese parliament would meet soon.

I see where Canada and the U.S. are going to exchange planes. But not, I hope, in mid-air.

Airliner
Crashes
Killing 19

CAIRO (Reuters)—Nineteen persons were killed when a Dutch airliner hit a sand dune and broke in two when attempting to land here today.

Everything appeared normal as the four-engine plane made its approach. The tower at Cairo airport cleared the plane for the approach and wished the pilot a "happy landing."

The plane broke in two after the impact.

KLM, the Royal Dutch Airline, announced that the plane carried 29 passengers and a crew of seven. There were 17 survivors, four of them crew members.

Among the freight carried by the airliner was more than $2.5 million in gold bars.

NO CANADIANS ABOARD
Some of the survivors were in critical condition, the announcement said. It was believed there were no Canadians aboard.

The plane was a four-engine turbo-prop Lockheed Electra flying from Amsterdam via Rome to Cairo, Karachi, Rangoon and Bangkok. The plane plowed into the top of a sand dune about three miles from the airport during its landing approach.

The crash area was strewn with clothing, shoes, luggage and children's toys. Some bodies were burned beyond recognition.

One man was found alive 200 yards from the wreckage. A dead child lay next to him. The survivors included Australian pilot Kenneth Reynolds, 37, who broke both legs.

Of the rest of the crew, the Dutch co-pilot was killed, and the flight engineer, purser and a stewardess were injured. The bodies of two stewards were missing.

Police Foil
Kidnap Plot
In Ottawa

OTTAWA (CP)—Police said today they are investigating a plot to kidnap an Ottawa businessman's child.

The city police department said in a statement "Confidential information has been received by the Ottawa police department to the effect that an attempt would be made to abduct the child of a prominent Ottawa businessman."

The police feel that this attempt will be foiled, the statement added.

Officials declined to name the family involved or to provide additional detail.

The Ottawa Journal reports that the case involves a $250,000 extortion plot and that the child is a boy in his teens. It adds that the boy has been under close guard since police first got word of the plot.

East, West Both
Urge Laos Peace

GENEVA (UPI)—The West and the Communist delegates compromised today and agreed to send an appeal to both sides in Laos to co-operate with the International Control Commission on a truce.

But new trouble developed shortly after the delegates to the 14-nation conference on Laos returned to the conference table for the first time since last Wednesday when the sessions were interrupted by a Western boycott over Communist cease-fire violations. Thailand walked out in a huff over a question of procedure.

Chief U.S. delegate W. Averell Harriman injected the only note of urgency into the two-hour, 22-minute meeting by demanding "expedient arrangements" for sending the ICC "necessary equipment and facilities" so it could properly do its policing job.

British Foreign Secretary today.

Lord Home presided at today's session and announced that the three rival princes of Laos would meet in Zurich in a companion-attempt with the conference to reach a solution for the Southeast Asian kingdom's troubles.

Joint Deal
And Swap
With U.S.

OTTAWA (CP)—Prime Minister Diefenbaker announced today that Canada and the United States have agreed to a joint aircraft production program to re-equip the RCAF and help NATO allies abroad.

The plan involves a swap of responsibilities: In return for taking over operation of 16 Pinetree radar stations now manned in this country by the U.S., Canada will receive 66 American F-101B Voodoo jet fighters for its RCAF home defence squadrons under North American Air Defence Command.

In addition, the U.S. and Canada will join in production in this country of $200,000,000 worth of American Starfighter jets for NATO allies. In Europe under the mutual aid program, The U.S. will bear $150,000,000 of this cost.

The U.S. will save about $50,000,000 a year by Canada assuming the manning, operation, maintenance and financing of the 16 Pinetree stations. Only five Pinetree stations at the eastern extremity of the line in Labrador will remain an American responsibility.

EXTENDS OVER 3 YEARS

The F-104G Starfighter jets, now under order for RCAF squadrons in Europe, will be built for mutual aid in a program extending approximately three years, starting in mid-1963.

A government source said the program will provide about 7,000 Canadian jobs for that period through prime and secondary suppliers.

Mr. Diefenbaker said the agreement, worked out in lengthy negotiations with the U.S. government, would ensure more effective use of the productive capacities, skills and resources of each country.

He said the Voodoo jet fighters to be obtained from the U.S. would be Canadian owned, and armed with conventional weapons. They will be used to re-equip the RCAF squadrons allocated to NORAD, and will be operated in accordance with NORAD plans.

REPLACE CF-100s

The squadrons have been flying the obsolete Canadian-designed CF-100 twin jet all-weather fighters.

The Voodoos will be delivered immediately and taken into service as rapidly as the air force can absorb them, he said.

The American planes are being obtained by Canada in return for the assumption by Canada of the U.S. commitment on the Pinetree Radar Line, which runs roughly parallel to the Canada-U.S. border, north of the more settled parts of Canada.

Lionel Grevier (L-Montreal Laurier), commenting on the announcement, said the cost to Canada of the three-cornered deal, as outlined by the prime minister, "may well be only the down payment."

IN U.S.

Anti-Semite Movement Spreading

NEW YORK (AP)—Anti-
Semitism in the United States has made "noticeable inroads"
in recent years, the American Jewish Committee said Sunday.

In a 28-page booklet, the committee said that despite a trend toward better inter-group relations in the U.S., "there has been some increase in blatantly bigoted activity."

verted to brazen Nazism, the report said, adding:

"Since 1937, synagogue
bombings, rare phenomena in the past, have occurred a number of times. A resurgent Ku Klux Klan and other extreme-ist groups in the South have provided a focal point for anti-Semitic activities in that region."

To combat the tactics of a "relatively small" number of anti-Semites, the committee suggested a four-point program:

1. A "quarantine" on public attention for "the bigot who thrives on publicity."

2. Exposure of "covert bigots—who quietly give financial aid to hatemongers."

3. Presentation of evidence to authorities where such actions violate federal, state or local laws.

4. Repudiation by institutions which anti-Semites claim to protect.

IN U.S.

Anti-Semite Movement Spreading

NEW YORK (AP)—Anti-
Semitism in the United States has made "noticeable inroads"
in recent years, the American Jewish Committee said Sunday.

In a 28-page booklet, the committee said that despite a trend toward better inter-group relations in the U.S., "there has been some increase in blatantly bigoted activity."

A number of racists have reverted to brazen Nazism, the report said, adding:

"Since 1937, synagogue
bombings, rare phenomena in the past, have occurred a number of times. A resurgent Ku
Klux Klan and other extreme-ist groups in the South have provided a focal point for anti-Semitic activities in that region."

To combat the tactics of a
"relatively small" number of anti-Semites, the committee suggested a four-point program:

1. A "quarantine" on public attention for "the bigot who thrives on publicity."

2. Exposure of "covert bigots—who quietly give financial aid to hatemongers."

3. Presentation of evidence to authorities where such actions violate federal, state or local laws.

4. Repudiation by institutions which anti-Semites claim to protect.
